GAS-MASKED TROOPS FIGHT GREAT HEATH FIRE

BIG WIGS ARRIVE AT GENEVA

Norman Davis's Talk With Henderson
Geneva, May 28. Mr. Anthony Eden, Mr. Norman Davis and M. Maxim Litvinoff have arrived for the Disarmament Conference.
Mr. Davis and Mr. Hugh Wilson, the United States observer at Geneva, had a lengthy interview with Mr. Arthur Henderson, at which the procedure to be followed was discussed.—Reuter.

CHARABANC BLAZE

THIRTEEN TOURISTS INCINERATED

TRAGIC FRENCH MISHAP

Bordeaux, May 17. Terrible tragedy overtook a party of Spanish tourists travelling by motor-coach through eastern France to-day.
Thirteen persons in the party are reported to have been burned to death and four others seriously injured when the motor-coach ran off the road and crashed into a telegraph pole.
The charabanc immediately caught fire and within a few minutes the whole vehicle was a mass of flames. Several escaped without hurt, but thirteen, possibly injured in the collision, were incinerated.

The mishap occurred near Lissos, in the Department of Landes, roughly half-way between Biarritz and Bordeaux.
It is understood that all the victims were Spanish tourists.

FOREST ABLAZE.
Telegraphic communication with Bordeaux has since been interrupted as a result of the accident, the blazing coach having set fire to the forest, according to reports.—Reuter.

MAN'S BODY FOUND

SEIZURE ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

The body of a Chinese, having the appearance of an earth-carrier, which was found on the Kwong Wah Road, near the Kwong Wah Hospital at Yumati, yesterday, and subsequently removed by the police to the Mortuary, was found to have a wound in the head.

The wound was fresh and clean and appears to have been caused by the deceased striking his head against a rock in falling. It is supposed that the man was ill and was on his way to hospital when he had a sudden seizure of dizziness and collapsed.

INDIAN MURDER MYSTERY

POLICE OFFER $500 REWARD

A reward of $500 has been offered by the police authorities for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the man or men who shot Special Police Guard, Mohamed Din, through the head with his own revolver, at Bowen Road last week.

SEVEN MILES LONG AND FIVE WIDE

DISASTROUS OUTBREAK NEAR ALDERSHOT

TWO R.A.F. PLANES DIRECT BATTLE

London, May 28. Miles and miles of countryside in Hampshire, near the great military camp at Blackdown, were destroyed yesterday in a disastrous heath and forest fire which raged for hours against the combined resources of the military authorities and the fire brigades for miles around.

The devastating sweep of the outbreak was undoubtedly due to the drought which has been particularly severe in this part of the country and threatens a repetition of the series of heath fires which ruined huge areas of the southern counties last summer.

A series of fires appear to have developed at different points and combined to make one great sheet of flame, devouring everything in its path as it was steadily fanned by the breeze.

RAF CO-OPERATION.

Two Royal Air Force aeroplanes and hundreds of soldiers co-operated with the firemen in fighting the great fire, while despatch riders were kept constantly busy carrying messages from one part of the affected area to another.

Within an hour of the initial warning, the flames covered an area seven miles long and five miles wide.

GUARDS REGIMENTS OUT.

The whole of the battalion of the 2nd West Kents were ordered out as soon as the peril became known, but they were helpless to check the flames and contingents of the Welsh Guards, the Coldstream Guards and the Life Guards, who were under canvas in the district were hastily rushed to assist in the combat, which the planes, able to survey the whole scene from overhead, directed operations by wireless.

The soldiers presented a weird spectacle as owing to the dense acrid smoke fumes they were compelled to wear gas masks.

EXPLODING BULLETS.

Exploding bullets presumably dropped by soldiers during training exercises over the heath added to the danger.

Towards afternoon, the fire was got under control, but the soldiers were put into temporary encampments near the scene as a precautionary measure, ready to swing into action as the first sign of a recurrence.—Reuter.

DIPLOMATIC JUGGLERY

HOW BRITAIN WAS FORCED INTO INVITING PRELIMINARY NAVAL TALKS

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraph Magazine, London, 1934. Received May 28, 5.15 a.m.)
Washington, May 27. A strange reluctance by the three principal Powers to acknowledge the "honour" of having initiated the conversations which are to be undertaken as a preliminary to the 1935 naval conference, has led to an effort to trace the initiation to its source.

Unofficial circles are reported to be checking how Britain was involved or forced into the initiation of the movement for preliminary conversations. It appears that Japan was very anxious that there should be early discussions, but declined to make the first move. The United States also sheered off when it came to extending invitations.

The Fate of Missing Dogs

YAUMATI RAID DISCOVERY

A possible clue as to the fate of missing dogs resulted from a raid carried out on premises in Reclamation Street, Yumati, where a dog was found wearing the collar of another animal which had been missing from Kowloon City since March 26. Cooked dog-meat was on a table served for a meal, and another dog already cut up for cooking was discovered.

There was a sequel to the raid at the Kowloon Magistrate's this morning when a woman named Leung Lin, of 495, Reclamation Street, was charged with stealing by finding a dog collar and keeping a dog without a licence.

In her defence on the first charge, the woman said she found the collar on the foreshore at Sing Wong Toi, Kowloon City.

She was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, and fined $10, or 14 days, on the second charge.

FRENCH ADMIRAL DUE

ARRIVING HERE TO-MORROW

The French cruiser Primauguet, flagship of the French Fleet in the Far East, is due here to-morrow morning at 9 a.m. flying the flag of Rear Admiral Richard.

Rear Admiral Richard took over the duties of C-in-C. of the French Fleet in the Far East about a month ago following the sudden death of Vice Admiral Descaux.

He was formerly Commander stationed at Saigon, a post now held by Capt. Demot-Mahard, former Captain of the Primauguet.

BINGHAM'S LUCK

It was a perhaps incautious verbal suggestion that Sir John Simon made to Mr. Bingham, the American Ambassador, to the effect that this might be an opportune time to initiate conversations, that was accepted quickly by the United States as an invitation, leaving Britain with no choice but to invite Japan, France and Italy.

SOCIALIST DISQUIET IN AUSTRIA

DISORDERS IN CAPITAL

TROOPS RUSHED TO PROVINCES

BOMB OUTRAGE AVERTED

Vienna, May 28. The Austrian Government is again faced with threats of violent disturbances, as the result of Socialist resistance to the acts of the Fascist regime.

The recent announcement of the extension of the powers of the Summary Courts led to big-scale Socialist demonstrations last evening in the working class district, Schmelz.

Cries of "Live Freedom, Down With Tyranny, Down With Doll-fuss" were raised and shooting is reported to have occurred, although no confirmation has yet been received.

TROOPS SENT TO PROVINCES.

The police and military authorities have taken stringent precautions against a repetition of the disorders.

Further grave trouble is impending peace in the provinces. It is understood that troops have been sent to Styria and Carinthia where troubles have broken out.

BOMB DISCOVERED.

During yesterday morning, the police discovered a bomb outside the Stock Exchange building in the heart of Vienna, which also contains the offices of the official Austrian news agency, as well as those of Reuters and other world news agencies.

The bomb is said to have contained four and a half pounds of dynamite and to have been timed to explode at 6 p.m. the hour when the official news agency begins work on Sunday.—Reuter.

FATAL RAILWAY MISHAP

CATTLE-BOY KNOCKED DOWN

A fatal mishap occurred on the Kowloon-Canton Railway yesterday, when a young Chinese was knocked down by a train, receiving injuries from which he died after admission to the Kowloon Hospital.

TURKISH CHALLENGE

DARDANELLES CONTROL

NO LONGER BOUND BY TREATY

Geneva, May 27. A Turkish challenge is predicted when the Disarmament Commission meets on Tuesday, which may have serious repercussions, though it is not considered likely.

It is learned from a usually well-informed source that Tewfik Rashed Bey, the Turkish Foreign Minister, will take an early opportunity to make a very important statement at the meeting of the General Commission in regard to the Dardanelles Straits and the Sea of Bosphorus.

It is understood that Tewfik Rashed Bey will indicate that Turkey no longer considers herself bound by the demilitarisation clause in the Treaty of Lausanne.

LAUSANNE PROVISION.

A special convention in the Treaty referred to demilitarised zones on either side of the Bosphorus and the Sea of Marmara, and lays down rules for preserving the freedom of the Straits during peace and war.

These rules are at present applied under the auspices of the League of Nations by an International Commission composed of the representatives of Turkey, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Bulgaria, Greece, Rumania, Russia and Yugoslavia.—Reuter.

NEW C-IN-C. EAST INDIES

REAR-ADMIRAL F. F. ROSE APPOINTED

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraph Magazine, London, 1934. Received May 27, 5.15 a.m.)
London, May 27. The Admiralty has announced the appointment of Rear-Admiral F. F. Rose, commanding the destroyer flotilla of the Mediterranean Fleet, to succeed Vice-Admiral Martin E. Dunbar-Nasmith, commander-in-chief East Indies Station, as from October 26 next.

Vice-Admiral Dunbar-Nasmith won the V.C. in 1915 while in command of the submarine E11, in which he passed through the Dardanelles to the Sea of Marmara and sank 11 Turkish ships.—Reuter Special.

CHINESE POLICE ARRESTED

MORE NORTH CHINA INCIDENTS

JAPAN'S STEADY PRESSURE

Tientsin, May 28. Latest developments in North China present a paradoxical situation.

While Japanese spokesmen declare that satisfactory arrangements have been reached for the complete withdrawal of the remaining Japanese forces along the Great Wall zone, alarm has been caused by the sudden appearance of regular Japanese forces in the city of Shanhaiwan.

Following this incident small groups of Japanese troops have been marching into the demilitarised zone in defiance of the Chinese police.

It is believed that the Japanese are trying to force the Chinese authorities to accede to their demands for the resumption of a through train service between Mukden and Peking.

CHINESE POLICE ARRESTED.

On Friday, Chinese Public Safety Guards in Luanhsien were fired upon by Japanese troops and subsequently three of the guards were disarmed by them, on the grounds that they showed a hostile attitude towards the Japanese.

According to the Japanese military attack, through train service between Mukden and Peking will be resumed under the control and management of a third party in the middle of next month.—Central News.

MUSSOLINI NAVY PROGRAMME

70,000 Tons of New Ships of the Line

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraph Magazine, London, 1934. Received May 27, 5.15 a.m.)
Rome, May 27. Signor Mussolini has explained that the two thousand million lire which has been allotted for strengthening the Italian navy and air force will be spread over a period of six years and not six months, as was first reported.

It is pointed out that it takes four years to complete a line-of-battle ship and that it is intended that the whole of the 70,000 tons allotted to Italy under the Washington Treaty will be devoted to ships of the line.—Reuter Special.

GUN BATTLE IN RACING CARS

POLITICAL RIVALRY IN PHILIPPINES!

CANDIDATES IN THE SHOOTING

Manila, May 28. A furious gun battle and two racing cars with the leaders of the major factions participating marked an amazing development in the political campaign at Santa Maria, in Ilocos Sur.

Three men, two of whom were seriously hurt, were wounded as a result of the gun fight. Prospero Sanidad, candidate for representative for the second district of Ilocos Sur, running against Representative Fidel Villanueva, both of whom took active part in the shooting, was wounded in the arm from a gun shot.

Simplex Albayalde, 37, an ex-soldier and at present a member of the police force of Vigan, who was riding with Sanidad, was shot several times and is dying.

Juan Alejo, driver of Representative Villanueva's car, was shot in the head and the back. He is in critical condition.

Representative Villanueva and three other men riding with him escaped death from the Sanidad faction by hiding in the bushes after their car was wrecked. Two truck loads of Sanidad men from Narvacan went after the Villanueva car which they destroyed completely but failed to locate the passengers.

BOTH FIRED.

The encounter took place on the boundary line between San Esteban and Santa Maria. The Villanueva car was headed north from Santa Maria at a fast clip when it was overtaken by Sanidad in another car.

Who fired the first shot is a question which the constabulary is at present trying to establish but obviously there was bad blood between the two groups and firing began just as soon as the two cars came within firing distance of each other, according to reports. Revolvers and shotguns were used freely in the melee.

HIGH TENSION.

When the smoke of battle had cleared, the casualties showed two men probably fatally shot and one less seriously.

The bloody encounter between the opposing political factions has thrown people of the province in a turmoil as the feelings between the two factions are at a high tension.

Villanueva and Sanidad are both from Narvacan. The town is at a high tension and bloody encounters between the followers of each group are feared.

The P. and O. liner Kaiser-I-Hind is due here from Singapore with the English mails at 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

A fight between two chair coolies over a fare, resulted in a third coolie, who was the peacemaker, being struck on the head with a piece of iron. The parties appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the General Police Court this morning, when the assailant was fined $10 or 14 days for assault. Det-Sergt. Fowle said a pedestrian called for a chair and chose to ride in the second of two.

who said
"I want unpainted kisses"

SHE knew the minute she met him that he was the man of her dreams. But he did not seem attracted to her. It was her own brother who guessed what was wrong. "Stop using a lipstick that makes you look painted," he said. Then she switched to Tangee. It can't make lips look painted... it isn't paint.

LOOKS ORANGE—ACTS ROSE

In the stick Tangee looks orange. But put it on and you'll see it change on your lips to the natural shade of rose most becoming to you. Instead of a greasy coating, Tangee becomes a very part of you... hence is longer-lasting than ordinary "paint" lipsticks. Tangee's special cream base soothes and softens, prevents lips from drying or chapping. Also in theatrical, a deeper shade for professional use.

UNTOUCHED—Lips left untouched are apt to have a faded look. make the face smoother.

PAINTED—Don't risk that painted look. It's coarsening and men don't like it.

TANGEE—Intensifies natural color, restores youthful appeal, ends that painted look.

Tangee Cream Rouge is really waterproof. Will not streak or wash away, ideal for sports use. Its cream base protects your skin against drying or chapping. Matches Tangee Lipstick and like it changes to your individual coloring.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

UTILITY IS KEYNOTE OF THESE SPRING MODELS

Simply Cut Ensembles Can Be Worn With Equal Propriety to Evening Affairs and Garden Affairs

By Marian Young

The new utility ensembles for formal and semi-formal wear will greatly reduce wardrobe budget worries for the average woman of moderate means. Not only can she select a floor-length jacket outfit that is a perfect evening gown without the jacket and a dinner dress with it, but if it's one of the new utilitarian creations, it can be worn to garden festivals, extra-special bridge parties and the like.

Next to their practicability, fabrics are the most outstanding features of these late spring models. Most of them are simply cut, relying almost entirely on their materials to give them glamour. You can stick to rough or flat crepe or be typically 1934-ish and go in for novelty fabrics as well as triple sheers, delicate chiffons or some of the interesting starched laces. It's smart to have the jacket contrast with the dress in either colour or material.

For instance, the ensemble (left) sketched here consists of a black organdy trimmed the square, collar evening gown cut on classic lines and a white organdy jacket embroidered with white string. The hip-length jacket has long, trim sleeves and a fluttering jabot neckline. The hat to match has an embroidered white organdy crown and a wide brim of starched black organdy. It's grand, as is, for dinner, the theatre, or an exciting party in a garden, or, without the jacket and hat, for any formal spring dance.

The other ensemble (right), of white rough crepe, has a long jacket with artificial flower petal sleeves. Black velvet ribbons form the sash on the dress and the band which ends in streamers on the wide-brimmed straw hat.

When the model had finished showing these two ensembles, she donned a magnificent evening dinner-garden party outfit in gray organza with a plaid pattern in lighter and darker gray checks. It consisted of a long, flowing evening dress with soft cowl neckline and a matching jacket that buttoned tightly about the hips. An amusing windblown ruffle of white organdy trimmed the square, collar evening gown cut on classic

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

Tissue Cream As Substitutes

By Alicia Hart

Too many cosmetics on a dressing table can be quite confusing. The wise woman makes a careful and thorough diagnosis of her skin before she buys the extras and then figures out a schedule whereby she'll have adequate time to use each one of them.

For instance, muscle oil corrects fine lines around the eyes and there's no use in buying a bottle of it in addition to a jar of eye astringent cream. Of course, if the budget allows and you're sure that you'll have time to use both preparations, it's fine to go ahead and get them. If not, get only one of them—the one that you think you will need the most.

Girls who cannot afford either muscle oil or astringent eye cream will have to use tissue cream as a substitute for both. And it's a perfectly adequate substitute providing the skin hasn't been neglected for too long a period. Simply put the tissue cream around your eyes, pat it into the lines across forehead and throat and leave it on all night. If it's rich in beneficial oils, there's no reason why it won't improve the texture of your skin and, at the same time, eradicate the lines.

Don't worry too much about the things you can't include on your list of new spring cosmetics. Learn to use the preparations that you do have in an intelligent and conscientious manner and you're sure to get excellent results.

TURKEY TO PROTECT HER UNEMPLOYED

Istanbul, May 26.

Thousands of foreigners employed in professions or as artisans in Turkey may shortly be thrown out of work.

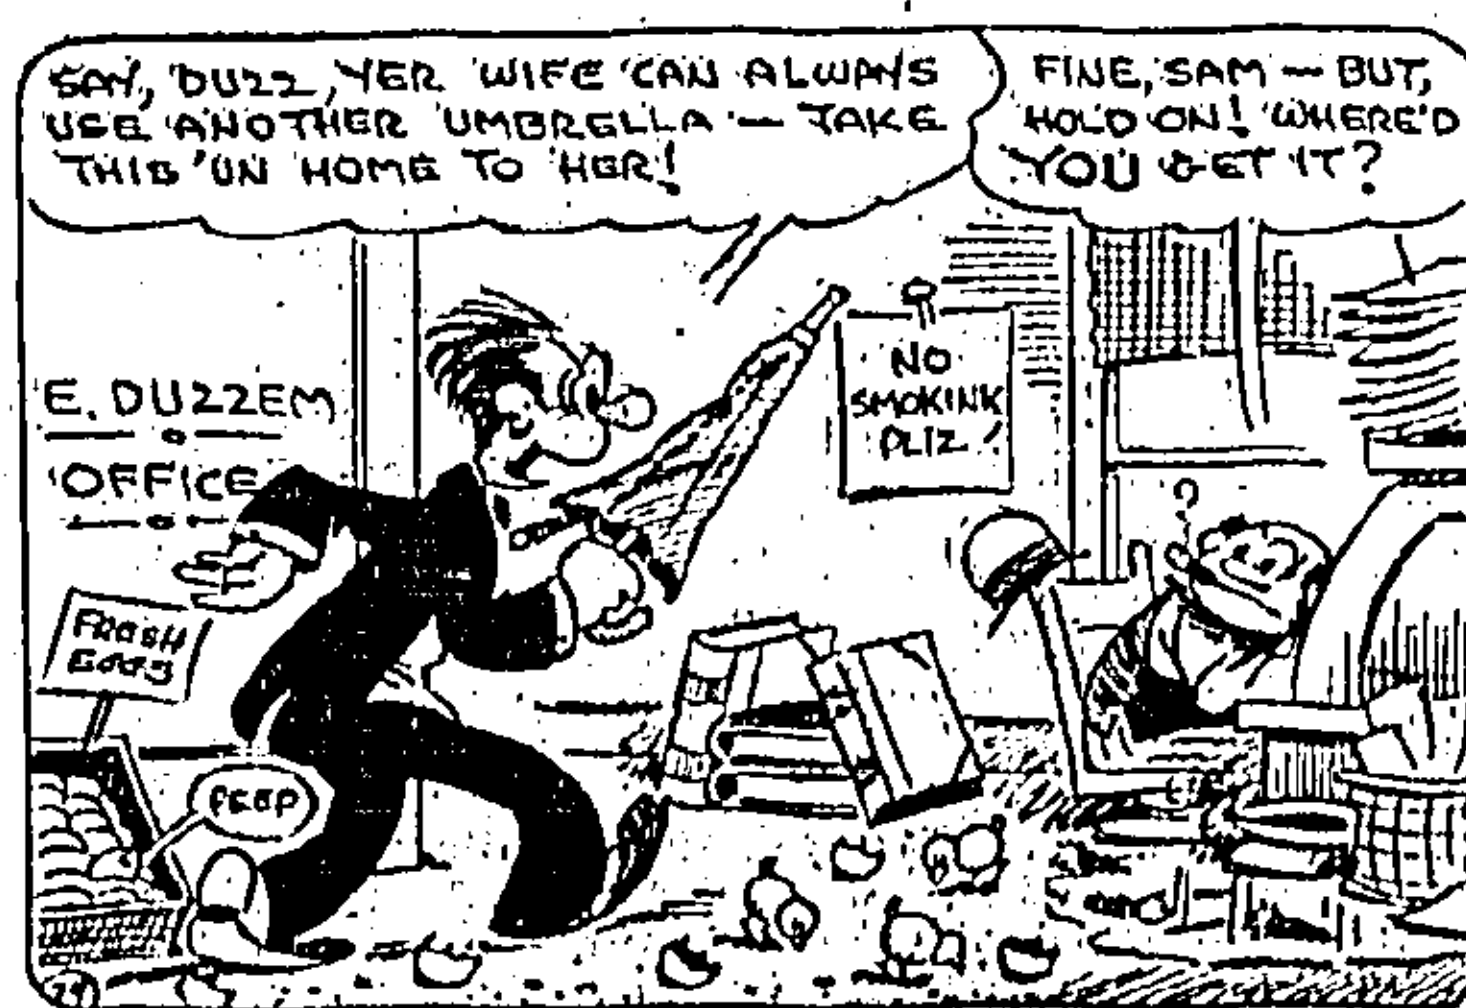

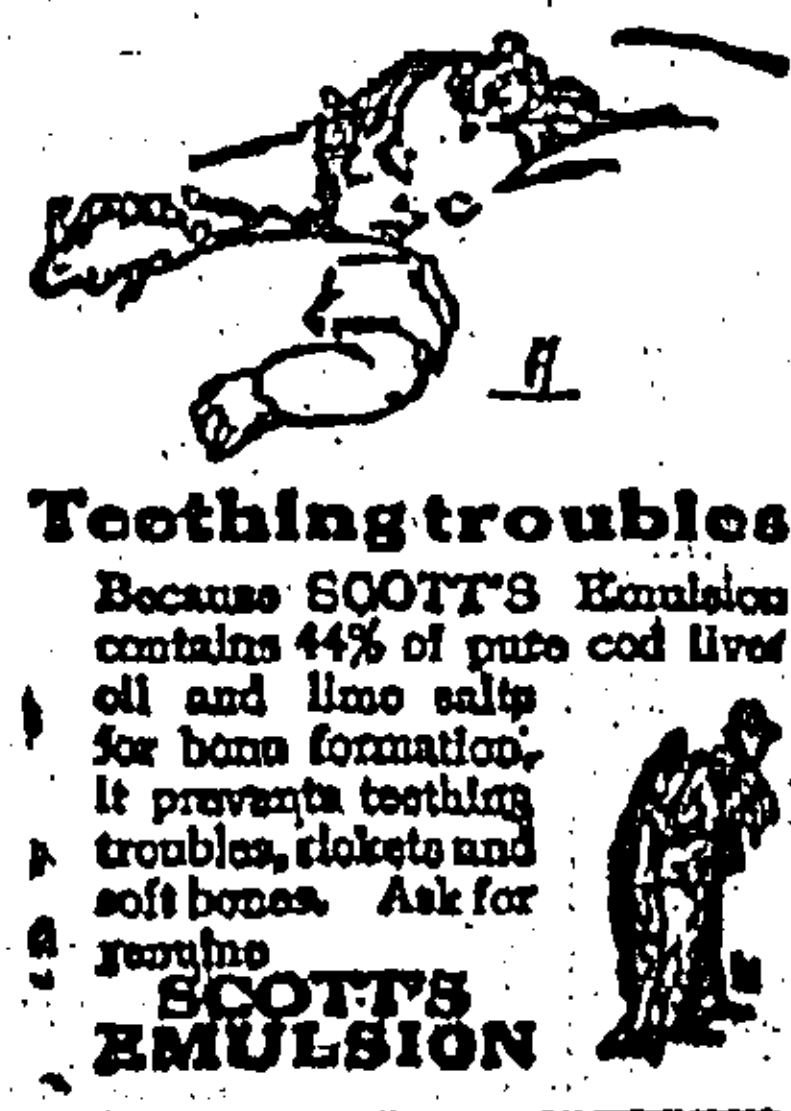

The Government to-day approved a law, whereby certain professions are reserved for Turkish nationals.

The law states that from this week, foreigners employed as chauffeurs, hairdressers, tailors, shoemakers, stock exchange clerks and musicians must cease work, while delays in execution ranging from three to twelve months have been agreed to in the case of foreigners employed as general labourers, waiters, actors, printers, chemists, Government servants and in other capacities.—Reuter Special.

Married Flirts

by MABEL
McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

GYPSEY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA JOYALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to be in luck, while Gypsy intends to go on with her job, teaching in a settlement house. After returning from her honeymoon in Europe, Lila invites the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARKO BROUGHTON, who once saved Gypsy, so marry him. He showers her with attentions which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in LILDA BLANCHARD. After the party Tom and Gypsy quarrel, but peace is later restored. They spend most of their weekends with Gypsy's parents in a New Jersey suburb.

CHAPTER X

The hall was full of the scent of wood fire as they came in, cosy and glowing from the out of doors. Gypsy's hand was linked in Tom's. It was one of those times to be looked back upon in life later with gratitude and wonderment, when two human hearts were perfectly in accord. But their moment was short lived. The hall was full of life and colour and movement. Sue Canavan, her red curls crackling, her slim figure smartly set off by the blue wool frock she wore, came forward and greeted them gaily.

"We were just about to leave—we had given you two wanderers up for good."

The tall man looming at her side was someone Gypsy had not seen before. He had a lean, humorous face; craggy brows over slate gray eyes that seemed to see everything. Gypsy liked his handclasp. It was firm and cool and assured. His hair was beginning to gray at the temples, making him look older than his years. Gypsy had heard Sue speak of Hunt Gibson before. He had been described as "a forty-seventh cousin." But they had not met before. Hunt, Sue was now explaining volubly, was just home from Singapore, and points east.

"Engineer?" Tom inquired, with a shade of respect in his voice. Gypsy caught the note, remembering that it had been Tom's ambition to be a mining expert, before his father had died, leaving him to fend for himself, putting the possibility of further college years out of the question.

Hunt nodded, and as the girl slipped upstairs to change, she observed with satisfaction that the two men were deep in conversation.

But when Tom came upstairs a few moments later, to get into his Sunday gray and put his wind-breaker and knickerbockers to dry, he seemed slightly grumpy.

"I thought we were going along home early," he observed, watching Gypsy running a comb through her wet curls. "Your mother says we're staying for supper."

"Ah, darling, I thought you'd understand that we couldn't run away like that," she began placatingly. "I haven't seen Sue for ages—we never seem to have time any more. We don't want to turn into hermits, do we?"

"No, but I want you to myself some time, you know that," he grumbled, laying his young cheek against her glowing round one.

She considered this. "I'll go along right now, if you say so," she began. Perhaps she was too insistent upon family ties. Tom himself had no mother or father, and so she didn't know what it felt like to be submerged by one's in-laws. Rosina they seldom saw, as the claims of a large and growing family hold her in her own particular groove.

Gypsy repeated this. "I'll tell Mums you have some work to finish—that's true, anyway, isn't it, darling?—and we'll barge along."

But his moment of ill-humour had passed. "Nonsense, dearest. We'll stay. Do you love your grouchy husband?"

"You're never that!" She was indignant. "I won't have you calling yourself names."

So they settled that particular question with the usual kisses, and Gypsy's eyes were starry, then usual when she rejoined the group downstairs.

"We've got to run," Sue announced, scandalized by the lateness of the hour and the girl twin's announcement that tea was imminent.

"Nonsense," protested Mrs. Morell, warmly. "Daddy and I are going over to the Williams for supper, but you must all stay—Ben will scramble eggs and someone will make coffee."

So it was arranged. They all gathered in the big bright kitchen. The smell of roasting bread and the pungent scent of fresh roasted coffee and frying bacon filled the air. Everybody carried plates into the shabby dining room, and the satin oval of Grandmother Morell's mahogany table, one of the few good pieces left in the house, soon reflected candle light and half a dozen youthful faces.

"This is fun!" Hunt Gibson was at Gypsy's right. She smiled at him, liking the lean ranginess of him. He was far from handsome, this engineer from the remote places of the earth, but there was something definitely attractive about him. Gypsy decided. He had a way of talking slangily out of the side of his mouth; and his stories were delightful.

"Bet you didn't have anything like this in Afghanistan," Sue challenged, leaning across the table.

"You bet your life I didn't!" he drawled, staring down at the girl beside him. Gypsy felt a queer little impulse of withdrawal; then, deciding she was imagining things, smiled warmly back at him. Just because you were married, was scarcely good reason for refusing to be friends with another man. And there was no doubt about it—this young stranger was liking her tremendously. No matter what she said, no matter what she did, he applauded.

"She's cute," he told the assembled company, with his three-cornered grin. "Cute little girl, isn't she?"

It was half-past ten. It was eleven. Gypsy glanced at the clock and out at the drifts, piling high in the yard, making mounds of the small pines and the rhododendron bushes.

"We honestly must be getting back to town?"

The slate gray eyes regarded her, the drawling voice asked casually: "You don't live out here, then?"

The other four, Beatrice and Bertram, Tom and Sue, were playing parchesi. Gypsy and Gibson were in deep chairs opposite each other at the fire.

She raised her dark eyes to his, smilingly. "No, we live in the city. East Fifties."

"Rotten night to start out." His nod indicated the drifting snow against the windows.

"Isn't it? But it'll be better going now than starting out in the morning. And I have a job."

"You!" He seemed vastly amused. "So you're one of those modern young women, too?"

The tone nettled her, she couldn't have said why. "You've been away from civilization so long," she told him negligently, "that you've forgotten how these things are done."

His great laugh rang out, and Tom Weaver, across the room, moved one of his pink "men" five spaces and wondered what this chap could be talking about to Gypsy.

"No. I haven't forgotten," Hunt contributed, in the silence that followed. "I just don't think it goes together—the job and marriage."

Gypsy tossed her head. "Ah, but it goes. I'm proving it." "You are, eh?" He rubbed his chin, considering this. He rose, resting one foot on the fender, and lighted a cigarette with deft lean fingers. "Well, perhaps I'm wrong. Just an old-fashioned boy," he grinned at her, and her annoyance evaporated; but she was conscious, suddenly, of Tom's eyes upon her, and she crossed the room to stand at his side.

"How's it going?" He smiled at her, drawing her down to the arm of his chair. "I'm running them all ragged. Science does it."

She ruffled his hair, proprietarily, to show Mr. Hunt Gibson that one modern marriage, at least, withstood the acid test.

"Well, hurry up and bring this contest to a close, my love, because it grows late."

Tom shook a pair of sixes, moved his last man fourteen spaces, sent Sue's "blue baby" home and triumphantly finished the game.

"You brought me luck, darling." "Fiend!" Sue muttered, pretending to be furious.

Gypsy went to gather her things together and Sue went with her.

"I like your cousin," Gypsy told the other girl, idly, perching her barest at an impossible angle and reddening her lips with expert fingers.

"Do you?" Sue's tone was casual, but she looked pleased. "I'm glad."

"We oughtn't to go before Mums and Dad get back," Gypsy went on. "Clytie isn't in, and I don't like to leave the twins alone."

But that problem was solved, as the Morells burst in, powdered with snow, at the moment.

Hunt drove them to the station in his sleek new car, a buff sedan of an expensive make. Tom eyed its bright fittings with respect they deserved.

"What d'you think of him, darling?" he asked, later as they rode sleepily along in a red plush seated coach, smelling of dust and stale cigars. "You seemed to be getting along like a house afire."

Gypsy patted away a yawn. "He's nice," she said. "But he's got some age ideas. I couldn't have married a man like that."

A striking picture of the most thrilling daredevil stunt ever performed before a circus crowd. It shows the famous Brothers Zachinni being shot out of a giant cannon into a net. The one brother is seen in the lead, the other is shown just as he emerges from the mouth of the gun.

SALE OF LIQUOR IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, May 26.

Mr. A. P. Herbert, famous contributor to Punch, has been campaigning for some time against the illegal sale of liquor in the House of Commons after specified hours.

Following this agitation, an application was made to a London magistrate recently for a summons against the Kitchen Committee of the House and the manager of the Bar.

The Magistrate held that he had no jurisdiction in the matter and an application has now been filed with the High Court seeking a writ of mandamus, compelling the magistrate to issue the summons—Special.

WEDDING BELLS.

SPANISH AND GERMAN FAMILIES

A charming wedding uniting two well-known Spanish and German families was celebrated at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, on Saturday, when the Rev. Father Rossi presided.

The parties were Mr. Helmut Heinemann, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Heinemann, and Miss Rosario Valdivia Campos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Campos Rueda, of 11, Hankow Road.

Mr. Ernest Muck was best man and Miss Josephine Campos, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a white Satin robe dress with a long train and camellias of white velvet around the neck. A crown of Russian style with a depending veil set off her dress to advantage and matched the beautiful bouquet of white roses gathered in wide Chantilly lace.

The bridesmaid looked equally lovely in a pink lace dress trimmed with blue feathers with a hat to tone adorned with pink roses. She carried a pose of blue orchids matching the feathers.

The bride's mother attended in a dress of grey satin robe with hat and shoes to tone.

The church was filled with many friends of the young couple. Mrs. Concha Cuervo at the organ accompanied Mrs. Maria Inchausti who sang the Ave Maria by Lucanenti.

A reception was held at the home of the bride after which Mr. and Mrs. Heinemann left for Cheung Chau, the bride's going away dress being of blue silk robe with coat and cellophane hat and shoes to match.

Girls who watch their income but overlook their diet are also penny wise and "pound" foolish.

VISCOUNT SUMNER.

PASSING OF FAMOUS LORD OF APPEAL

London, May 28.
Viscount Sumner, former Lord of Appeal and British Delegate to the Peace Conference in Paris, died in London to-day aged 76. By general consent he was one of the most distinguished judges and one of the greatest authorities on commercial law of recent times. As a judge, he was noted for the rapidity with which he reached decisions in even the most difficult cases, and he was never known to reserve judgment. He frequently spoke in the House of Lords where his opinions, particularly on constitutional issues, carried great weight.

John Andrew Hamilton Sumner, 1st Viscount of Ibsstone, G.C.B., P.C., K.C., Baron (Life-Peer) of Ibsstone was the son of Andrew Hamilton, an iron merchant of Manchester, and Frances, daughter of Joseph Sumner of Sharncliffe, Cheshire. He was married in 1892.

Educated at Balliol College, Oxford, he became Fellow of Magdalen College. He subsequently received the Honorary title of LL.D. (Edinburgh, Manchester and Cambridge) and D.C.L. (Oxford). Called to the Bar (Inner Temple) in 1895, he was appointed a K.C. in 1901, a Bench in 1909, Treasurer in 1930, Standing Counsel to the University of Oxford 1906-1909, and Judge of the High Court of Justice, King's Bench Division, from 1909 to 1912.

From 1912 to 1913, Lord Sumner was a Lord Justice of Appeal and from 1913 to 1930 was a Lord of Appeal in Ordinary. In 1918 he was Chairman of the Working Classes Cost of Living Committee also of the British and Foreign Legal Procedure Committee. He was a member of the British Delegation to the Reparations Commission at the Peace Conference in Paris in 1919, and two years later was appointed Chairman of the Royal Commission on Compensation for Suffering and Damage by Enemy Action. In 1926 he was Chairman of the House of Lords Committee on Abeyances.

He leaves no heir to the title—British Wireless and Special.

UTILITY BATTLE IN AMERICA

PUBLIC V. PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

AN EXPECT'S SURVEY

New York, May 26. The "outstanding crimes" of public utility companies have been committed against the investor, rather than the consumer of power, according to Mr. Thomas F. Woodlock in a discussion of municipal versus private ownership in the Wall Street Journal.

Mr. Woodlock's analysis has attracted particular attention in the financial community because of the current wave of legislation aimed at utilities and utility holding companies. Both Federal and State Governments have instituted a flood of utility investigations, and these have been supplemented by a series of laws designed either to encourage municipal ownership of private companies.

The Federal Power Commission is now engaged in a survey of electricity rates, pursuant to a Senate resolution sponsored by Senator Norris of Nebraska, ancient foe of private utility operation.

The New York State Legislature has just enacted a series of bills circumscribing activities of private power companies and encouraging municipal ownership. Utility shares on the stock market have responded to this regulatory barrage by consistently lagging behind in every general market advance.

VERBAL BATTLE.

Mr. Woodlock, in summing up the recent New York battle of words between Governor Lehman and Mr. Floyd Carlisle, chairman of Consolidated Gas Company of New York, cites figures showing an average monthly residential electricity bill in the United States of U.S.$2.75.

Mr. Carlisle, in his debate with the Governor, produced a collection of municipal plants in 33 New York villages where the average monthly cost of electricity to the residential user was U.S.$3.47 or 26 per cent. above the average for the United States.

These figures, however, carry little weight, Mr. Woodlock declared. "Public ownership and operation of electricity utility service in this country," he said, "save in comparatively very few places is not on the average as economical or as efficient as is private operation. Such figures as are available point in that direction, but they are not conclusive."

In Brooklyn the cost is U.S. $2.20 per month and in Greenport it is U.S.$5.

"How can such a variation be accounted for? How many of these villages purchase current from private plants? How many generate their own power? How many really cover costs from the rates charged? In how many do taxpayers subsidize consumers and vice versa?"

BEGGING QUESTION.

"It is easy to demonstrate that given equal ability and honesty in management and accounting it should be possible to make and distribute electric current more cheaply by the use of public credit than by employing private credit. But we all know that in that assumption the entire question is begged at the start. Municipal government, municipal finance and municipal accounting are assuredly not outstanding jewels in our social crown."

"The real crime of the electric industry is its prosperity, aggravated by the conspicuous blunders—and worse of some of its most prominent leaders.—United Press.

A fine of $30, or three weeks' hard labour, was imposed on Chan Yin by Mr. Macfadyen this morning for the possession of a watch and chain, suspected of having been unlawfully obtained. Detective-Sergeant Goodwin said defendant stated that a man whom he could not find, had given him the watch, with the promise of a half-share in the proceeds if he was successful in pawning it. The watch, valued at $12, was probably stolen, he added.

BAND CONCERT AT Y.M.C.A.

MUSICAL TREAT BY LINCOLNSHIRE

Once again there was a "capacity house" for the concert given by the band of the 1st Battalion, Lincolnshire Regiment in the European Y.M.C.A. last night, a varied and attractive programme being played.

Among the notable items were the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah" which completed the first half of the programme, a selection from Verdi's famous opera "La Traviata" and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2. Two enjoyable songs were also sung by one of the bandmen, and the band, under the able baton of Mr. C. S. Trowl, gave a delightful entertainment for nearly two hours.

Other numbers played included: Serenade (Pierne), Reminiscence of Sullivan (Winterbottom), Three Pieces (Tchaikovsky) and Indian Intermezzo (Linday).

At the conclusion, Mr. E. F. Selk (Assistant Secretary), expressed thanks to the officers of the Lincolnshire Regiment for permitting the band to give the concert and also to Bandmaster Trowl and his men for their splendid contribution. Hereafter, he said, "band" in Hongkong had generally been aptly "banned," but now thanks to the generosity of the regiment stationed here, they were able to enjoy splendid programmes of music.

REV. T. W. DOUGLAS JAMES

RECEIVES HOME APPOINTMENT

At the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of England, held in London recently, the Rev. T. W. Douglas James, M.A., was appointed successor to Rev. P. J. MacLagan, D.D., as Secretary of its Foreign Missions Committee, the appointment to take effect in a year's time.

Mr. James was educated at the Crypt School, Gloucester, and gained from there the distinction of an Open Scholarship to Pembroke College, Oxford, where he took Honour Mods. in History. He came out to China in 1910 under the English Presbyterian Mission, and was stationed first at Chaochowfu near Swatow and then at Wukingfu in the Mission's Hakka field.

In 1917, when the Southern troops first appeared to drive the Northern garrison out of Chaochowfu, Mr. James, with the Rev. E. H. Hildreth and the American Baptist Mission and a Roman Catholic Father earned the gratitude of the whole city by acting, at considerable personal risk, as intermediaries between the rival forces and obtaining finally satisfactory terms for the peaceful evacuation of the city. By public vote a stone tablet recording the incident was set up in the chief temple of the city, where it still stands.

Mr. James is a good administrator in Church affairs and possesses a distinct literary gift. Before taking up his new post Mr. James, who is at present in England on furlough, will return to the East to arrange matters in his old station and to visit Formosa and the other fields wherein the English Presbyterian Mission has work.

SUCCESS OF BALLROOM COMPETITION

Record Crowd Besiege Hongkong Hotel

The not unpopular idea that ball-room dancing in Hongkong is for the most part a means to attain a social end would appear to require revising, judging by the enormous success which attended the finals of the dancing competition organised at the Hongkong Hotel on Saturday afternoon in connection with the George White's "Scandals."

A record crowd besieged the grill room of the hotel, and over 500 people sat down to tea and to watch 18 couples dance off for the prizes donated by the Sincere Company. The judging, again by popular vote, found the first three couples close together, the winners being: 1. Miss Lily Lai and Mr. W. M. Leong; 2. Miss Violet Lee and Mr. Mok Yue-ham; 3. Miss Christina Porpetuo and Mr. Tam Kok-wah. The arrangements, which were in the hands of the hotel management, were excellent in every detail, and the competition can be judged a big success, affording as it did novel entertainment to so many hundred people.

DISASTER FUND

ONLY THREE MORE DAYS

CAN $5,000 BE RAISED?

After to-day, only three more days remain for contributions to the Telegraph Fund on behalf of sufferers in the gasworks disaster. The Fund is being definitely closed on the 31st inst.

The response so far has been most gratifying, and those who have sent in contributions have the knowledge that the funds are being put to excellent use. Every case is closely scrutinised.

It would be a fine wind-up if the Fund were during the next three days raised to $5,000. There will not be the least difficulty in making use of this sum, as many of the cases which have received urgent temporary relief will need further grants, to say nothing of the hospital cases which will have to be dealt with when the patients are discharged.

ITALY'S FINANCES

SPECULATION IN LIRA PROHIBITED

Rome, May 26. A special decree is to be published immediately, imposing severe penalties for speculation in the lira.

This step was announced by Signor Mussolini during an important speech in the Chamber, preceding the adjournment for the summer recess.

Signor Mussolini said that the exportation of Italian currency would be forbidden except for strictly business requirements.

Italy, he declared, was faced with two grave financial problems. The first was a budget deficit of 4,000,000,000 lira on the current financial year and the second was an estimated deficit of 2,900,000,000 lira on the trade balance for the same year.—Reuter Special.

Head injuries which may prove fatal were suffered by Chan Sze, 72, a widow, when she was knocked down in Johnston Road yesterday by a tram.

H.M.S. Calcutta, with reliefs from the Yangtze on board, is due here to-morrow at 8 a.m. She will call for Singapore and the United Kingdom on June 1.

Sometime during Saturday night or early yesterday morning, a burglar entered the St. Paul's Hostel at Upper Albert Road, and stole jewellery, clothing and money to the value of over $200 from one of the inmates.

After it was killed, a snake measuring four feet six inches in length, caught in a chicken pen owned by Mr. A. A. Lopes, of No. 2 Duke Street, Kowloon Tong, was found to have a large toad in its stomach.

FOR CANCER FUNDS.

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT HELD AT KING'S COLLEGE

In furtherance of the British Empire Cancer Campaign Funds, a concert was given at the King's College on Saturday night by a large number of voluntary artists.

The Orchestra of the 1st Battalion, The Lincolnshire Regiment, was present by kind permission of Lt. Col. E. J. de Boys, M.C. and Officers, assisting in a number of items.

Variety was entered for by Chinese items, which included a Fairy Lantern Dance by the Girls of the Fairlie School, a "Historical Chinese Dance" by Queen Yu Ki impersonated by Mr. Lam Sui-mui, who was at one time associated with the famous Chinese northern actor, Mei Lan-fong.

Mr. Li Chor-eh, well-known local vocalist, rendered two songs, and assisted in a quartette comprising also Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Miller and Mrs. Gardiner.

Comic songs which provided the humorous note of the evening, were given by Mr. W. J. Geall and by Mr. Dick Barry, who was also the accompanist. The Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryn maintained his reputation as a humorist.

A great attraction was a Highland Fling by Mr. Allan Riechi, Mr. W. C. K. Mackie providing the bagpipe music.

Other items which earned well-merited applause were given by Mrs. Gardiner, who sang "Sally"; Cpl. Tagley, of the Orchestra and saxophone soloist; Miss Azalea Reynolds, whose solo dances were features of the evening; and Mrs. Anderson Miller, who sang the Waltz Song from "Tom Jones."

Chinese instrumental music was played by Mr. Pun In-lat and friends.

Dr. J. H. Montgomery, one of the organisers of the function, spoke on the Cancer Campaign.

Among those present were His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. McGregor, Mr. Justice Thomas, Chief Justice of Singapore, Commodore Frank Elliott and Mrs. Elliott.

Regrets at their inability to be present, and cheques towards the Funds were sent by His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., C.B.E., and Lady Peel, the Hon. Sir Thomas and Lady Southern, Sir William Hornell, Sir Shou-son Chow, the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Trautman, Mr. Quist, Consul General to Netherlands, the Hon. Dr. Kewell, Mr. and Mrs. Davies, Mrs. Fung Kong Un, Mr. Chau Man Chee, Mr. Wong Kwong Tin, Commander Paymaster Porter, Mr. A. el Arculli and Mr. Fung Ping Wa.

The total collections at the concert amounted to $358.15.

JAPAN'S HERO

ADMIRAL TOGO IS CRITICALLY ILL

Tokyo, May 27. Throughout Japan to-day Navy Day was celebrated. It was the 25th anniversary of Admiral Count Togo's victory over the Russian Fleet in the Battle of Tsushima Straits. But the gaiety was subdued by the news, late in the day, that Admiral Togo was critically ill.

As usual, the nation planned a day of joyous celebration. The Emperor, the combined Services, school children, all take part. It is a day on which the nation pays a tribute to Admiral Togo, who vanquished the Russian fleet.

The announcement that the Admiral, who has been confined to his bed since last summer with senility, had reached a critical condition of health, caused widespread anxiety and grief. The famous sailor's condition is aggravated by bronchial complications and throat trouble.

Admiral Togo is 87 years of age, and was formerly Chief of the Naval Staff. He was made Admiral of the Fleet in 1912.

He attended the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, 1873-74. In the China-Japan War he commanded H.I.J.M.S. Naniwa, 1894, and was Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese Fleet in the Russo-Japanese War, 1904-05.—Reuter.

Through a mis-step made when he attempted to board a moving bus in Nathan Road yesterday, Chik Shu, a conductor of the Kowloon Motor Bus Co., received injuries leading to his admission to hospital.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ingram will learn with regret that their youngest daughter, Helen, has been admitted to hospital suffering from meningitis.

Tsui Yin, aged 61 years, who admitted the theft of cotton singlet from No. 166, Des Voeux Road Central, was fined $10 or fourteen days' imprisonment by Mr. Macfadyen in the Police Court this morning. Sub-inspector Hallam said defendant took the singlet from a counter and placed it under his arm under cover of a bamboo hat.

PERRY, AUSTIN AND HUGHES IN THE LAST EIGHT

FOR FRENCH TENNIS TITLE

CRAWFORD ALSO WINS ELIMINATION OF MCGRATH AND HARRY HOPMAN

Paris, May 27.

The first five to reach the quarter-finals of the French tennis championships comprise overseas competitors, including three Englishmen—Perry, Austin and Hughes. Crawford of Australia and Menzel of Czechoslovakia are the other two players.

Two of Australia's leading exponents, Vivian McGrath and Harry Hopman were eliminated, McGrath failing to put any sort of fight against a determined Menzel and Hopman being equally as overawed against Fred Perry.

M. Slem, beaten by J. Crawford, after winning the first set to love in the French tennis championships.

Austin, fully recovered from a recent attack of gastric influenza, dominated H. Artens, the Austrian Davis Cup player, to win in straight sets (the second to love), and Hughes, benefiting from his experiences in Australia last winter and more recently from tournament play in Egypt, accomplished a first class performance in eliminating Hecht in four sets.

CRAWFORD'S EXPERIENCE.

Jack Crawford had an unexpected experience against M. Slem, the Indian Davis Cup representative. He lost the first set to love, and was taken to twelve games in the third set, after which he ran away with the fourth, refusing to concede a game.

Indications are that England will have at least two representatives in the semi-finals, and as the draw has been seeded, Austin will very likely meet Crawford for the first time since last year's European Zone final of the Davis Cup.

The latest results are:
J. Crawford (Australia) beat M. Slem (India) 6-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-0.

G. P. Hughes (England) beat H. Hecht 6-2, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.
H. W. Austin (England) beat H. Artens (Austria) 6-4, 6-0, 6-3.
F. Menzel (Czechoslovakia) beat V. McGrath (Australia) 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

F. J. Perry (England) beat H. Hopman (Australia) 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

BETTY NUTHALL OUT.

Miss Betty Nuthall, one of the official England lady representatives in the championships, was defeated in the third round by Sign. Valerio, Italy's leading player, who won in straight sets 6-4, 6-4.

Sign. Valerio has enjoyed several outstanding successes during the spring tournaments on the Riviera, and at Naples only a few weeks ago brought off a triple victory.

She beat Fr. Aussem, Germany's famous player in the women's singles final, and partnered by Fr. Aussem won the ladies doubles against Sign. Luzzatto and Sign. Orlandini (6-4, 6-4), while with W. Hines, she won the mixed doubles event, beating G. L. Rogers and Mile. Conquerque by 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

J. F. CORNES IN A QUANDARY

REPRESENTATION FOR EMPIRE GAMES

London.
J. F. Cornes, the former Oxford University President and British champion in 1932, is in a quandary. He has returned home to England on leave from Nigeria, where he has a business appointment and is wondering whether he should represent India, Africa or Great Britain if he is invited to compete in the British Empire Games in London next August.

"I am home on leave for six months from Nigeria," Cornes said, "and I do not know how I shall shape on a cinder track. During the next month or so I intend to have a few spins over the country near my home, and then I shall probably compete in the Southern Championships."

"If I feel that I have recovered my form I shall enter the A.A.A. championships, and then, of course, I might be considered good enough to take part in the Empire Games, but then comes the question, which country shall I represent?"

"I was born in India, and I am resident in Africa, but practically all my running has been done in England. That is a little problem to be solved before I return to Nigeria and my work."—Reuter.

BADMINTON

NEW ASSOCIATION FORMED

During the reception of the Danish badminton team at Craig-side, Hydrø, Llandudno, before their match against Wales, Mr. F. W. Hughes, chairman of the Welsh Badminton Union, said that the draft Constitution of the new Badminton Federation had been provisionally accepted. The Federation would supersede the various badminton unions, and give it there would be equality of representation. Wales, for instance, would have equal representation with England, although the Welsh union was the youngest of the British badminton unions.

NEW ASSOCIATION.

A Northampton county badminton association is to be formed. The county will be in the same group as Derbyshire, Nottinghamshire, Leicestershire, and Lincolnshire, and the clubs affiliated will be: Peterborough, Kettering, Towcester, and Northampton (three teams). Mr. Gaultrey, of the Peterborough club, has been elected to the general committee and the selection committee. The secretary of the Association will be Mr. F. Rymill, of Northampton, and the match secretary, Mr. Miller, of Kettering.

AROUND THE LOCAL SPORTS FIELD

By "Veritas"

WHY CHINESE OLYMPIC FOOTBALLERS LOST

Not for years have local Chinese football teams suffered so many defeats, particularly in representative games, as in the season recently concluded, and when on Saturday last, the victorious Olympic side returned to give an exhibition of their prowess against a Hongkong F.A. eleven, they had the mortification of again being the losing team. While admitting that the Chinese were without their inspiration, Lee Wai-long, it has also to be remembered that the winners were the services of Mullane, Morrison, Podmore and Jones.

WHY THEY LOST.

Of course one does not have to search far to discover the reason why the Olympic outfit lost. Quite apart from the display of Cord in goal, which has not been equalled during any time of the last eight months, the Chinese made the mistake of preferring the "fancy stuff" against players who have not only come to recognize it a mile off, but have also worked out very effective methods for its destruction. In terms of scientific football, the Chinese were cleverer and more entertaining, but expressed in the language of goals, which means victory as against defeat, the Association eleven were right ahead.

CORD'S GOALKEEPING.

Cord's goalkeeping for the winners was not only brilliant enough to bring the huge crowd to its feet time and again, but also to draw complimentary remarks from Mr. M. K. Lo at the presentation following the match. Several times Cord appeared to be taking extraordinary risks, and on the face of it might have been described as lucky to get away with his clearances; nevertheless it was noticeable that his timing was faultless, and that whether under the bar or several yards in front of his citadel, he was absolutely confident.

IN THE FIELD.

In the field, A. V. Gosano at left back, Ernest Strange up forward and L. G. Robertson at half, played finely for the Association, while for the Chinese, Tam Kong-pak was a thrustful attacker, but badly supported, Leung Wing-chui was just Leung Wing-chui, and Wong Wing had his most unhappy match for months.

uninterrupted victory, and continuing to head the first division of the lawn bowls league as a result of a smashing win against the Civil Service on Saturday. The champions were up on all three rinks, a true sign of team work, balance and stability. Craigengower "A" forgot about their ignominious reverse at the hands of their colleagues a week previous and went to Taikeo to head all three rinks and win comfortably. Their less reliable club-mates in the same division, although at home, failed to stop the Reccelo from garnering points. There are still long faces to be seen at the K.C.C., and the Police are also beginning to wonder what it feels like to win, although they were not engaged on Saturday.

CIVIL SERVANTS SHOCKED.

As was anticipated, the Police helped themselves considerably by winning against the Football Club, but it was hardly expected they would benefit as they did at the expense of the Civil Service. But the "Servants" suffered their first licking and as a result have to share the leadership with the Police and I.R.C. Incidentally the progress of the Sookunpoo bowlers this year is worth noting.

LAWN TENNIS.

Teams in the "C" Division of the league have got their way, and each one will now play 14 matches instead of seven. A supplementary list of fixtures will have to be drawn up, as the decision to reverse the ruling of the Executive Committee was not made until after the handbook had gone to press. In the meantime, there is an absorbingly interesting match in the mixed doubles scheduled for this afternoon. The U.S.R.C., keenly seeking to regain the crown lost last year to the C.R.C., meet the Kowloon Cricket Club in the first of two matches. The K.C.C. are also stronger this year than for some time past, and with a victory over the champions already to their credit, are looking forward with quiet assurance to the outcome of to-day's important encounter.

EXCELLENT LADIES.

The United Services this year have very much strengthened by the inclusion of Mrs. Kayll, a player of considerable experience and talent. Against this the K.C.C. enjoy the assistance of Mrs. Wilson, who with Teddy Fincher, can be ranked among the first three mixed doubles pairs in the Colony. Good form is also being shown by Miss Griffiths and Bertie Guest, and it is from these two pairs that the K.C.C. hope to obtain the required five sets.

New York, May 27.
The Yankees suffered another crushing defeat to-day, when they were beaten by St. Louis, who totted up 16 runs from 15 hits, as against the Yankees' meagre seven runs.

For the first time for some period, there was some effective pitching done. Mungo blanked out Cincinnati Reds and Betts of Boston Braves did likewise to the Chicago Cubs. New York Giants were again beaten and St. Louis Cardinals chalked up further points.

WORLD LAND SPEED RECORD

Salduro Lake Suitable For Sir M. Campbell

New York.
Mr. W. E. Sturm, who is representing Sir Malcolm Campbell at Salduro Lake City, says that the shore of the great lake will meet the requirements for Sir Malcolm's attempt to improve on his own world land speed record of 272.108 m.p.h. in August.

This announcement follows the decision of the local body to try to raise $10,000 as guarantee for expenses.

Mr. Sturm says that the tentative course will undoubtedly stand the weight of Campbell's car going over it at 300 m.p.h.

The Salduro Lake bed where the attempt will be made is a deposit of hard packed natural mineral salts. The latest report seems to dispose of recent rumours that Sir Malcolm's next attempt would be in South Africa.—Reuter.

Purifying Golf Language

NEW ITALIAN EDICT

London, May 17.

The Italian Golf Federation announces that golf language must go and only pure Italian words be used. This is not all. The Federation has issued new orders to all golf clubs throughout Italy—all the oldest were founded by Britons and Americans—which are fraught with far-reaching consequences to non-Italian players. The new rulings provide:

1.—All club presidents, secretaries, and committee members must be Italian.

2.—No players may compete in inter-club matches without the Federation's consent.

3.—Clubs may not hold committee meetings without advising the Federation beforehand.

4.—Competitors in cup ties must pay a special fee to the Federation.

5.—Non-Italian players must pay a special tax, and obtain an identity card before using Italian courses.

GERMANY'S IDEA.

Recently, all club secretaries were British, and non-Italian members sat on the committees and took great interest in the welfare of their clubs. One British President has been allowed to remain—Cmdr. Alfred Wyatt, of the Menaggio and Cadenabbia Golf Club, on Lake Como, the course and club-house being his property. The Federation has made this exception because he was given Contrarily, in Germany it has been decided that golf, although not a German game, is to be popularised. There are only fifty clubs in Germany, for golf there is a rich man's game. But times are to change.

"Golfers are not born, they are made," say the National Socialists, and they have set aside a day as the "Day of German Golf" to demonstrate to the people how the game should be played.

After that, all novices showing particular talent are to be given free tuition, and a special corps of 22 players is to be trained to repel foreign invaders. Talks on golf are to be broadcast, and the price of equipment is to be reduced. A set of German clubs will cost less than half the price of English ones.

Comfortable Davis Cup Victory

UNITED STATES WIN 5-0

Wilmington, May 27.
Canada failed to win a single rubber against America in the North American zone match of the Davis Cup, losing the last two singles rather easily.

Earlier George Lott and J. Van Ryn had made things certain for the United States by beating Marcel Talnville and Martin in the doubles 6-0, 6-4, 6-0.

Afterwards Lester Stoefer beat Nunn in his second singles 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, and Frank Shields overcame Watt just as comfortably by scores of 6-1, 6-3, 6-4.

The United States therefore won by five matches to nil.—Reuter.

AUSTRALIAN LADIES FOR WIMBLEDON
THE ATTRACTIVE
MISS HARTIGAN

Visitors to the championships at Wimbledon this year will in all probability see four of Australia's leading women players. The Australian lady champion, Miss Joan Hartigan (ranked number one), and Mrs. J. H. Crawford (Australia's number two) will be official representatives of the A.L.T.A., whilst Mrs. Moleworth and Mrs. H. C. Hopman (Miss Nellie Hall) are also likely to compete. Miss Hartigan's appearance will be awaited with more than usual interest. At the age of twenty-one this young player stands alone among the present-day Australian women players. Her fore-hand is the chief stroke, according to report, one of the hardest in the game to-day, and a fierce stroke than that of several of the leading Australian men. G. P. Hughes and W. Allison regard it the best stroke ever produced by a lady player.

MANY IMPRESSIVE VICTORIES.

Miss Hartigan comes to Wimbledon with an impressive list of victories in Australia—during the past twelve months she has retained the Australian championship and won the singles championship of New Zealand, New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia and Queensland—every Australian state title bar two. She is the daughter of Mr. Thomas Hartigan, Chief Commissioner for Railways in N.S.W., and a niece of Mr. Roger Hartigan, a Queensland member of the Board of Cricket Control and a former Australian XI batsman. Mrs. M. M. Moleworth, ranked third in Australia and the present Australian ladies' doubles champion (with Mrs. Westacott), and runner-up to Miss Hartigan in the singles, left Australia for the United States in February—in company with her husband, Professor Moleworth, who is now touring American Universities and hopes to compete in the French championships and at Wimbledon.

SUCCESSFUL TOURNAMENT PLAYER.

She has won the Australian championship, twice—in 1922 and 1923—and the Queensland state championship nine times with the aid of her fore-hand chop and free-hit back-hand. She played in her first inter-state match 21 years ago, and since that date has won every state championship except Western Australia in her time. Mrs. H. C. Hopman, ranked sixth in Australia, accompanies her husband to Europe this year; they hope to pair up for the mixed doubles championship at Wimbledon.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "The very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Thess. 5:23).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage. If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit" (Galatians 5:12-25).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Paul said, 'Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.' Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in Soul, in matter instead of in Spirit" (p. 223).

HEAVY BOOKINGS.

U.S. TOURISTS FLOCKING TO LONDON

London, May 26. Although the English season has only just begun, shipping lines report very considerable increases in holiday traffic, particularly from the American continent.

Trans-Atlantic companies agree that bookings are over 30 per cent. above those of last year and that nearly 80 per cent. are Americans, intent on spending their holidays in Britain, where reduced prices to travellers attract as compensation for the depreciated dollar.—British Wireless.

SADKO, LEMBERG AND PRIMA DONNA FINISH WELL IN GALLOP*SOME PROMINENT PERFORMERS

A fair number of ponies including a few Australian ponies which have been entered for the Sixth Extra Meeting of the Hongkong Jockey Club galloped at Happy Valley on Saturday. After its popular victory last week, Sadko again impressed in a mile effort, finishing well in 30.3 seconds. Another of Mr. G. A. Harriman's mount, Prima Donna also showed a fine finish. Lemberg did the mile and a quarter in 2:16.1, doing the last mile in about 2:10 mins., which is considered highly satisfactory.

After its recent relapse, Brechin again appeared in good shape. Night Star was full of running although its rider was content for a slow canter over the medium distance. Other impressive runners are What A Chance, Boxing Eve, Wayward Stag, Cavalcade, Mike, Hot Sun, William Ostler, St. Ives, Monoplane. Details below:

CONTRACT
BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem.

Re-entries are an important factor in practically every hand, and still the careless player will not wake up to the fact that he needs re-entries until he has wasted one of them.

To-day's hand is really simple. The bidding is normal and South does not have enough strength to open with anything but a one bid.

Remember that pre-emptive bids to-day are practically a thing of the past with the better player. Get out of the habit of pre-empting.

You may win a hand occasionally, and once in a great while you will find an opponent who will beat you on a hand by making a pre-emptive bid, but to offset that, just keep track of the hundreds of points you win from your opponents through foolish pre-emptive bids.

If they pre-empt and you have the tickets, they are not going to stop you from bidding. What usually happens is that they shut their partners out of the bidding, as well as their opponents, and find themselves in the wrong contract.

I do not like to support my partner with only three trumps after a one bid; therefore, North's response of two hearts is proper.

Of course, as South shows better than a four-card spade suit by his re-bid, North is justified in supporting to four.

The Play

West cashes the ace, king, and queen of clubs, and then leads the queen of diamonds, which South must win with the ace. He has a losing trick in his hand and the only way that he can get rid of it is on a heart.

If the hearts are divided four-three, he can see a possibility of making his contract—but he must watch his entries, so his first play is the three of hearts, winning with the ace in dummy. A heart is returned and declarer should trump with the eight of spades—not a small one.

Now the five of spades is led and won in dummy with the nine. Another heart is returned and this time it should be won with the ten of spades—not the deuce.

The jack of spades must be led next and won in dummy with the queen. A heart is returned and ruffed with the king of spades. We have finally established that little heart.

At the same time, we have reserved the deuce of spades in our own hand and the three spot in dummy, which is the needed entry.

The deuce of spades is won in dummy with the three, the losing diamond now is discarded on the

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

George White, famed producer of the "Scandals," made his professional debut in Hollywood by interviewing nearly 600 girls for the first motion picture edition of his musical. He picked a cast of 160 actresses who appear with Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, Cliff Edwards, Alice Faye and Adrienne Ames in the Fox Film production. Congestion of the large stages at Movietone City by "Fox Follies," "Coming Out Party" and "Bottoms Up" forced White to leave the studio and hold his interviews at the Carthay Circle Theatre. Girls gathered at the theatre for a chance to work with the famous impresario. The block on which the theatre stands. For the tryouts the entire group was seated in the auditorium and taken in groups of 50 to the stage, where White and his dance director, George Hale, made selections that eliminated all but the 160. Commenting on this group, White cast a vote in favour of Hollywood beauty in the long-standing series of the New York beautiful and their Hollywood sisters. He expressed the view that the motion picture centre offers fully as beautiful types as he has encountered in his fifteen years on Broadway. "Scandals" is now playing at the King's Theatre.

"This Side of Heaven"

"This Side of Heaven," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which opens Wednesday at the Alhambra Theatre, brings together in one family one of the most representative arrays of screen talent yet to be seen in any film production. Based upon the novel of Marjorie Barhelemew Partridge, it presents the problems of a typical American family—the good heart, and the last trick is won with the ace of spades.

Today's Contract Problem

South has the contract at four hearts. West opens the king of diamonds. How can declarer play the hand to make sure of not losing more than one spade trick?

"DESPICABLE" ACT

MAGISTRATE'S JUDGMENT IN SORDID CASE

"I consider the defendant a youth of despicable character who has disgraced himself and his family. I am extremely sorry for the girl, but I cannot feel she was entirely blameless in the matter." With these words, Mr. Hamilton on Saturday discharged Chan Sui-tim, who was accused with having procured unlawful carnal knowledge of Cheng Yuk-yim, a girl of 18 years of age, by a false promise of marriage as a kit fat or first wife.

During the hearing of the case throughout last week, the Central Magistrate was packed by a motley crowd of spectators, who, on several occasions, were warned by the Magistrate. On Saturday, Mr. Hamilton ordered a portion of the court to be cleared, and threatened the remainder of the spectators with arrest if there was any disturbance.

In his judgment, the Magistrate said that the wording of the section as he understood it demanded that the inducement to connection be false at the time it was made.

Section Inapplicable?

"I am indeed somewhat doubtful if it applies to a promise of marriage, except perhaps in the case of a promise to marry made by a man who legally could not perform his promise, for example, a man married by the Church of England or Roman Catholic rites, whose wife was undivorced from him or undivoreable from him," he said.

"In this case I am unable to find that the defendant did not contemplate a correct form of marriage with the complainant, that is, correct under prevailing Chinese customs. I therefore find myself

RECORD BREAKERS

NON-STOP FLIGHT TO SAN DIEGO

Paris, May 26.
The French airmen, Codos and Rossi took off at 5.10 a.m. to-day in an attempt to break their own world's record for a non-stop flight along a straight line.
Flying in a westerly direction, they hope to cross the Atlantic and the American continent, landing at San Diego.—Reuter.

Flight Commences.

Paris, May 27.
Rossi and Codos hopped off at 5.10 a.m. to-day, bound for the United States, on a distance record-breaking attempt. They are travelling in a monoplane named Joseph Lobriz.

The plane soon disappeared to the west after a successful take-off. It is believed they will take a northerly route. However, that is dependant upon conditions. If they travel as expected they will fly over Newfoundland and then head for California.

The machine carries a load of nine tons and travelled a mile before it could rise for a take-off.—United Press.

Over The Ocean.

London, May 27.
Codos and Rossi were sighted high above the Scilly Islands at 3.30 p.m. They are due over Nova Scotia at 8.15 a.m. G. M. T. Monday. They are broadcasting their position hourly and expect to be in California on Tuesday at 7 p.m.—United Press.

unable to convict.

"I must, however, point out that defendant is only clear upon the criminal count. I express no opinion as to what further action might take place," concluded Mr. Hamilton.

DROUGHT'S TOLL

ALARMING POSITION IN BRITAIN

London, May 26.
"Active co-operation between all consumers and the authorities is needed in view of the exceptional drought," says a special warning issued by the Ministry of Health and forwarded to all local authorities.

The notification draws particular attention to leaky pipes and dripping taps. It declares that twenty per cent of the water can thus be saved without any inconvenience.

During the past twelve months, the rainfall everywhere in Great Britain has been below normal. In some parts of the country, the drop has been as much as 40 per cent.

Even parts of Lincolnshire and all rural parts of Cambridgeshire are suffering severely.

Ramsay in Huntingdonshire, a town with a population of 5,000 is wholly dependent on water carried from outside centres.

In Buckinghamshire, engineers boring for water found that a tunnel, twenty feet in diameter, which should have been full of water, was bone dry.

Many farmers report heavy losses of sheep.

No alarm is felt in London at present, although the flow over the Teddington lock is one-third of normal.

Since June is usually a dry month, the general situation has become alarming. Weather reports are not hopeful. They indicate continual anti-cyclones, while the supply of depressions from Iceland, usually accompanied by rain, seems to have failed completely.—Our Own Correspondent.

THE KING'S CUP

CLASSIC AIR RACE PREPARATIONS

London, May 26.

The King's Cup Air Race, the most important annual event of its kind in Britain, promises to be exceptionally interesting this year.

Thirty-eight entries have been received. They include several new types of fast civil planes and engines. There is among these newcomers the Tony Percival New Gull, entered by Prince George.

It has a speed of over 200 miles an hour. A Camper Sirek has been entered by Lord Wakefield and a new British Kimm Eagle has been entered by Mr. Gandar Dower. Among the new engines will be a 200 horsepower Gypsy Six, a Pobjoy Cataract and a Wolseley A.R.9. The performances of these new entrants will be closely compared by aviation enthusiasts with the longer established types. The race, which takes place on July 13 and 14 over an 800 miles course, is divided into four rounds, with probably eight heats in the first round, four in the second and two in the third.—British Wireless.

French airmen endeavouring to break the world nonstop flight record by a 6,000 mile journey from Paris to San Diego, are nearing the end of the most trea-

The Atlantic crossing has nearly been accomplished, and they should be sighted round about midnight.
At 3.50 p.m. Eastern Standard

800 miles off the Newfoundland coast.

Three and a half hours later, a wireless message was picked up

HOW BRITAIN WAS FORCED INTO INVITING PRELIMINARY NAVAL TALKS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News

Washington, May 27.
A strange reluctance by the three principal Powers to acknowledge the "honour" of having initiated the conversations which are to be undertaken as a preliminary to the 1935 naval conference, has led to an effort to trace the initiation to its source.

Unofficial circles are reported to be checking how Britain was involved or forced into the initiation of the movement for preliminary conversations.

It appears that Japan was very anxious that there should be early

The devastating sweep of the outbreak was undoubtedly due to the drought which has been particularly severe in this part of the country and threatens a repetition of the series of heath fires which ruined huge areas of the southern counties last summer.

A series of fires appear to have developed at different points and combined to make one great sheet of flame, devouring everything in its path as it was steadily fanned by the breeze.

R.A.F. CO-OPERATION.

Two Royal Air Force aeroplanes and hundreds of soldiers co-operated with the firemen in fighting the great fire, while despatch riders were kept constantly busy carrying messages from one part of the affected area to another.

Within an hour of the initial warning, the flames covered an area seven miles long and five miles wide.

GUARDS REGIMENTS OUT.

The whole of the battalion of the 2nd West Kents were ordered out as soon as the peril became known, but they were helpless to check the flames and contingents of the Welsh Guards, the Coldstream Guards and the Life Guards, who were under canvas in the district were hastily rushed to assist in the combat, which the planes, able to survey the whole scene from overhead, directed operations by wireless.

The soldiers presented a weird spectacle as owing to the dense acrid smoke fumes they were compelled to wear gas masks.

EXPLODING BULLETS.

Exploding bullets presumably dropped by soldiers during training exercises over the heath added to the danger.

Towards afternoon, the fire was got under control, but the soldiers were put into temporary encampments near the scene as a precautionary measure, ready to swing into action as the first sign of a recurrence.—Reuter.

eastern France to-day.

Thirteen persons in the party are reported to have been burned to death and four others seriously injured when the motor-coach ran off the road and crashed into a telegraph pole.

The charabanc immediately caught fire and within a few minutes the whole vehicle was a mass of flames. Several escaped without hurt, but thirteen, possibly injured in the collision, were incinerated.

The mishap occurred near Biarritz and Bordeaux.

It is understood that all the victims were Spanish tourists.

The Fate of Missing
Dogs

YAUMATI RAID
DISCOVERY

A possible clue as to the fate of missing dogs resulted from a raid carried out on premises in Reclamation Street, Yaumati, where a dog was found wearing the collar of another animal which had been missing from Kowloon City since March 26. Cooked dog-meat was on a table served for a meal, and another dog already cut up for cooking was discovered.

There was a sequel to the raid at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when a woman named Leung Lin, of 495, Reclamation Street, was charged with stealing by finding a dog collar and keeping a dog without a licence.

In her defence on the first charge, the woman said she found the collar on the foreshore at Sing
Wong Toi, Kowloon City.
She was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, and fined $10, or 14 days, on the second charge.

"I want unpainted kisses"

She knew the minute she met him that he was the man of her dreams. But he did not seem attracted to her. It was her own brother who guessed what was wrong. "Stop using a lipstick that makes you look painted," he said. Then she switched to Tangee. It can't make lips look painted... it isn't paint.

LOOKS ORANGE—ACTS ROSE

In the sick Tangee looks orange. But put it on and you'll see it change on your lips to the natural shade of rose most becoming to you. Instead of a greasy coating, Tangee becomes a very part of you... hence is longer-lasting than ordinary "paint" lipsticks. Tangee's special cream base soothes and softens, prevents lips from drying or chapping. Also in Theatrical, a deeper shade for professional use.

UNTOUCHED—Lips left untouched are apt to have a faded look... make the face seem older.

PAINTED—Don't risk that painted look. It's coarsening and men don't like it.

TANGEE—Intensifies natural color, restores youthful appeal, ends that painted look.

Tangee Cream Rouge is really waterproof. Will not streak or wash away, ideal for sports use. Its cream base protects your skin against drying or chapping. Matches Tangee Lipstick and like it changes to your individual coloring.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

UTILITY IS KEYNOTE OF THESE SPRING MODELS

Simply Cut Ensembles Can Be Worn With Equal Propriety to Evening Affairs and Garden Affairs

By Marian Young

The new utility ensembles for formal and semi-formal wear will greatly reduce wardrobe budget worries for the average woman of moderate means. Not only can she select a floor-length jacket outfit that is a perfect evening gown without the jacket and a dinner dress with it, but, if it's one of the new utilitarian creations, it can be worn to garden festivals, extra-special bridge parties and the like.

Next to their practicability, fabrics are the most outstanding features of these late spring models. Most of them are simply cut, relying almost entirely on their materials to give them glamour. You can stick to rough or flat crepe or be typically 1934-ish and go in for novelty fabrics as well as triple sheers, delicate chiffons or some of the interesting starched laces. It's smart to have the jacket contrast with the dress in either colour or material.

For instance, the ensemble (left) sketched here consists of a black sheer evening gown cut on classic lines and a white organdy jacket embroidered with white string. The hip-length jacket has long, trim sleeves and a fluttering jabot neckline. The hat to match has an embroidered white organdy crown and a wide brim of starched black organdy. It's grand, as is, for dinner, the theatre, or an exciting party in a garden, or, without the jacket and hat, for any formal spring dance.

The other ensemble (right), of white rough crepe, has a long jacket with artificial flower petal sleeves. Black velvet ribbons form the sash on the dress and the band which ends in streamers, on the wide-brimmed straw hat.

When the model had finished showing these two ensembles, she donned a magnificent evening dinner-garden party outfit in gray organza with a plaid pattern in lighter and darker gray checks. It consisted of a long, flowing evening dress with soft cowl neckline and a matching packet that buttoned tightly about the hips. An amusing windblown ruffle of white organdy trimmed the square, colored neckline of the jacket.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

Tissue Cream As Substitutes

By Alicia Hart

Too many cosmetics on a dressing table can be quite confusing. The wise woman makes a careful and thorough diagnosis of her skin before she buys the extras and then figures out a schedule whereby she'll have adequate time to use each one of them.

For instance, muscle oil corrects fine lines around the eyes and there's no use in buying a bottle of it in addition to a jar of eye astringent cream. Of course, if the budget allows, and you're sure that you'll have time to use both preparations, it's fine to go ahead and get them. If not, get only one of them—the one that you think you will need the most.

Girls who cannot afford either muscle oil or astringent eye cream will have to use tissue cream as a substitute for both. And it's a perfectly adequate substitute providing the skin hasn't been neglected for too long a period. Simply put the tissue cream around your eyes, pat it into the lines across forehead and throat and leave it on all night. If it's rich in beneficial oils, there's no reason why it won't improve the texture of your skin and, at the same time, eradicate the lines.

Don't worry too much about the things you can't include on your list of new spring cosmetics. Learn to use the preparations that you do have in an intelligent and conscientious manner and you're sure to get excellent results.

TURKEY TO PROTECT HER UNEMPLOYED

Istanbul, May 26.

Thousands of foreigners employed in professions or as artisans in Turkey may shortly be thrown out of work.

The Government to-day approved a law, whereby certain professions are reserved for Turkish nationals.

The law states that from this week, foreigners employed as chauffeurs, hairdressers, tailors, shoemakers, stock exchange clerks and musicians must cease work, while delays in execution ranging from three to twelve months have been agreed to in the case of foreigners employed as general labourers, waiters, actors, printers, chemists, Government servants and in other capacities.—Reuter Special.

Married Flirts

by MABEL
McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

GYPSEY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and PERK DUBB. Lila expects to live in luxury, while Gypsy intends to go on with her job, teaching in a settlement house. After returning from her honeymoon in Europe, Lila invites the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy HARRY DROUGHTON, who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He shows her with attention which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in LILA BLANCHARD. After the party Tom and Gypsy quarrel, but peace is later restored. They spend most of their weekends with Gypsy's parents in a New Jersey suburb.

CHAPTER X

The hall was full of the scent of wood fire as they came in, rosy and glowing from the out of doors. Gypsy's hand was linked in Tom's. It was one of those times to be looked back upon in life later with gratitude and wonderment, when two human hearts were perfectly in accord. But their moment was short lived. The hall was full of life and colour and movement. Sue Canavan, her red curls crackling, her slim figure smartly set off by the blue wool frock she wore, came forward and greeted them gaily.

"We were just about to leave—we had given you two wanderers up for good."

The tall man looming at her side was someone Gypsy had not seen before. He had a lean, humorous face; craggy brows over slanting eyes that seemed to see everything. Gypsy liked his handclasp. It was firm and cool and assured. His hair was beginning to gray at the temples, making him look older than his years. Gypsy had heard Sue speak of Hunt Gibson before this. He had been described as "a forty-leventh cousin." But they had not met before. Hunt, Sue was now explaining volubly, was just home from Singapore, and points east.

"Engineer?" Tom inquired, with a shade of respect in his voice. Gypsy caught the note, remembering that it had been Tom's ambition to be a mining expert, before his father had died, leaving him to fend for himself, putting the possibility of further college years out of the question.

Hunt nodded, and as the girl slipped upstairs to change, she observed with satisfaction that the two men were deep in conversation.

But when Tom came upstairs a few moments later, to get into his Sunday gray and put his wind-breaker and knickerbockers to dry,

he seemed slightly grumpy.

"I thought we were going along home early," he observed, watching Gypsy running a comb through her wet curls. "Your mother says we're staying for supper."

"Ah, darling, I thought you'd understand that we couldn't run away like that," she began placatingly. "I haven't seen Sue for ages—you never seem to have time any more. We don't want to turn into hermits, do we?"

"No, but I want you to myself some time, you know that," he grumbled, laying his young cheek against her glowing round one.

She considered this. "I'll go along right now, if you say so," she began. Perhaps she was too insistent upon family ties. Tom himself had no mother or father, and so she didn't know what it felt like to be submerged by one's in-laws. Rosina they seldom saw, as the claims of a large and growing family held her in her own particular groove.

Gypsy repeated this. "I'll tell Mums you have some work to finish—that's true, anyway, isn't it, darling?—and we'll barge along."

But his moment of ill-humour had passed. "Nonsense, dearest. We'll stay. Do you love your grouchy husband?"

"You're never that!" She was indignant. "I won't have you calling yourself names."

So they settled that particular question with the usual kisses, and Gypsy's eyes were starrer than usual when she rejoined the group downstairs.

"We've got to run," Sue announced, scandalized by the lateness of the hour and the girl twin's announcement that tea was imminent.

"Nonsense," protested Mrs. Morell, warmly. "Daddy and I are going over to the Williams for supper, but you must all stay—Ben will scramble eggs and someone will make coffee."

So it was arranged. They all gathered in the big bright kitchen. The smell of roasting bread and the pungent scent of fresh roasted coffee and frying bacon filled the air. Everybody carried plates into the shabby dining room, and the satin oval of Grandmother Morell's mahogany table, one of the few good pieces left in the house, soon reflected candle light and half a dozen youthful faces.

"This is fun!" Hunt Gibson was at Gypsy's right. She smiled at him, liking the lean ranginess of him. He was far from handsome, this engineer from the remote places of the earth, but there was something definitely attractive about him, Gypsy decided. He had a way of talking stangly out of the side of his mouth; and his stories were delightful.

"Bet you didn't have anything like this in Afghanistan," Sue challenged, leaning across the table.

"You bet your life I didn't," he drawled, staring down at the girl beside him. Gypsy felt a queer little impulse of withdrawal; then, deciding she was imagining things, smiled warmly back at him. Just because you were married was scarcely good reason for refusing to be friends with another man. And there was no doubt about it—this young stranger was liking her tremendously. No matter what she said, no matter what she did, he applauded.

"She's cute," he told the assembled company, with his three-cornered grin. "Cute little girl, isn't she?"

It was half-past ten. It was eleven. Gypsy glanced at the clock and out at the drifts, piling high in the yard, making mounds of the small pines and the rhododendron bushes.

"We honestly must be getting back to town?" The slate gray eyes regarded her, the drawing voice asked casually: "You don't live out here, then?"

The other four, Beatrice and Bertram, Tom and Sue, were playing parchesi. Gypsy and Gibson were in deep chairs opposite each other at the fire.

She raised her dark eyes to his, smilingly. "No, we live in the city. East Fifties."

"Rotten night to start out." His nod indicated the drifting snow against the windows.

"Isn't it? But it'll be better going now than starting out in the morning. And I have a job..." "You!" He seemed vastly amused. "So you're one of those modern young women, too?" The tone nettled her, she couldn't have said why. "You've been away from civilization so long," she told him negligently, "that you've forgotten how these things are done."

His great laugh rang out, and Tom Weaver, across the room, moved one of his pink "men" five spaces and wondered what this chap could be talking about to Gypsy.

"No, I haven't forgotten," Hunt contributed, in the silence that followed. "I just don't think it goes together—the job and marriage."

Gypsy tossed her head. "Ah, but it goes. I'm proving it."

"You are, eh?" He rubbed his chin, considering this. He rose, resting one foot on the fender, and lighted a cigarette with deft lean fingers. "Well, perhaps I'm wrong. Just an old-fashioned boy."

He grinned at her, and her annoyance evaporated; but she was conscious, suddenly, of Tom's eyes upon her, and she crossed the room to stand at his side.

"How's it going?" He smiled at her, drawing her down to the arm of his chair. "I'm running them all ragged. Science does it."

She rumbled his hair, proprietarily, to show Mr. Hunt Gibson that one modern marriage, at least, withstood the acid test. "Well, hurry up and bring this contest to a close, my love, because it grows late."

Tom shook a pair of sixes, moved his last man fourteen spaces, sent Sue's "blue baby" home and triumphantly finished the game.

"You brought me luck, darling." "Fiend!" Sue muttered, pretending to be furious.

Gypsy went to gather her things together and Sue went with her. "I like your cousin," Gypsy told the other girl, idly, perching her bare feet at an impossible angle and reddening her lips with expert fingers.

"Do you?" Sue's tone was casual, but she looked pleased. "I'm glad."

"We oughtn't to go before Mums and Dad get back," Gypsy went on. "Clytie isn't in, and I don't like to leave the twins alone."

But that problem was solved, as the Morells burst in, powdered with snow, at the moment.

Hunt drove them to the station in his sleek new car, a buff sedan of an expensive make. Tom eyed its bright fittings with respect they deserved.

"What d'you think of him, darling?" he asked, later as they rode sleepily along in a red plush seated coach, smelling of dust and stale cigars. "You seemed to be getting along like a house afire."

Gypsy patted away a yawn. "He's nice," she said. "But he's got some ago ideas. I couldn't have married a man like that."

DISASTER FUND

ONLY THREE MORE DAYS

CAN $5,000 BE RAISED?

After to-day, only three more days remain for contributions to the Telegraph Fund on behalf of sufferers in the gasworks disaster. The Fund is being definitely closed on the 31st inst.

The response so far has been most gratifying, and those who have sent in contributions have the knowledge that the funds are being put to excellent use. Every case is closely scrutinized. It would be a fine wind-up if the Fund were during the next three days raised to $5,000. There will not be the least difficulty in making use of this sum, as many of the cases which have received urgent temporary relief will need further grants, to say nothing of the hospital cases which will have to be dealt with when the patients are discharged.

MAN'S BODY FOUND

SEIZURE ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

The body of a Chinese, having the appearance of an earth-carrier, which was found on the Kwong Wah Road, near the Kwong Wah Hospital at Yuen-mat, yesterday, and subsequently removed by the police to the Mortuary, was found to have a wound in the head.

The wound was fresh and clean and appears to have been caused by the deceased striking his head against a rock in falling. It is supposed that the man was ill and was on his way to hospital when he had a sudden seizure of giddiness and collapsed.

HEAVY BOOKINGS.

U.S. TOURISTS FLOCKING TO LONDON

London, May 28.—Although the English season has only just begun, shipping lines report very considerable increases in holiday traffic, particularly from the American continent.

Trans-Atlantic companies agree that bookings are over 30 per cent. above those of last year and that nearly 80 per cent. are Americans, intent on spending their holidays in Britain, where reduced prices for travellers attract as compensation for the depreciated dollar.—British Wireless.

A fight between two chair coolies over a fare, resulted in a third coolie, who was the peacemaker, being struck on the head, with a piece of iron. The parties appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, when the assailant was fined $10 or 14 days for assault. Det-Sgt. Foville said a pedestrian called for a chair and chose to ride in the second of two.

Charged before Mr. Thomson, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with the theft of a radiator cap from car No. 3724 parked in Queen's Road West, Chan Wing, unemployed, was sentenced to three months' hard labour.

The P. and O. liner Kaiser-i-Hind is due here from Singapore with the English mails at 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

BAND CONCERT AT Y.M.C.A.

MUSICAL TREAT BY LINCOLNSHIRE

Once again there was a "capacity house" for the concert given by the band of the 1st Batt. Lincolnshire Regiment in the European Y.M.C.A. last night, a varied and attractive programme being played.

Among the notable items were the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah" which completed the first half of the programme, a selection from Verdi's famous opera "La Traviata" and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2.

Two enjoyable songs were also sung by one of the bandmen, and the band, under the able baton of Mr. C. S. Trowl, gave a delightful entertainment for nearly two hours.

Other numbers played included: Serenade (Pierrot), Reminiscences of Sullivan (Winterbottom), Three Pieces (Tschakovsky) and Indian Intermezzo (Lindany).

At the conclusion, Mr. E. F. Selk (Assistant Secretary), expressed thanks to the officers of the Lincolnshire Regiment for permitting the band to give the concert and also to Bandmaster Trowl and his men for their splendid contribution. Hereafter, he said, "band" in Hongkong had generally been spelt "banned," but now thanks to the generosity of the regiments stationed here, they were able to enjoy splendid programmes of music.

SUCCESS OF BALLROOM COMPETITION

Record Crowd Besiege Hongkong Hotel

The not unpopular idea that ball-room dancing in Hongkong is for the most part a means to attain a social end would appear to require revising, judging by the enormous success which attended the finals of the dancing competition organised at the Hongkong Hotel on Saturday afternoon in connection with the George White's "Scandals."

A record crowd besieged the grill room of the Hotel, and over 500 people sat down to tea and to watch 18 couples dance off for the prizes donated by the Sincere Company.

The judging, again by popular vote, found the first three couples close together, the winners being: 1. Miss Lily Lai and Mr. W. M. Leung; 2. Miss Violet Lee and Mr. Mok Yue-ham; 3. Miss Christina Perpetua and Mr. Tam Kok-wah.

The arrangements, which were in the hands of the hotel management, were excellent in every detail, and the competition can be judged a big success, affording as it did novel entertainment to so many hundred people.

REV. T. W. DOUGLAS JAMES

RECEIVES HOME APPOINTMENT

At the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of England, held in London recently, the Rev. T. W. Douglas James, M.A., was appointed successor to Rev. P. J. MacInnes, D.D., as Secretary of its Foreign Missions Committee, the appointment to take effect in a year's time.

Mr. James was educated at the Crypt School, Gloucester, and gained from there the distinction of an Open Scholarship to Pembroke College, Oxford, where he took Honour Mods. in History. He came out to China in 1910 under the English Presbyterian Mission, and was stationed first at Chao-chowfu near Swatow and then at Wukingfu in the Mission's Hakka field.

In 1917, when the Southern troops first appeared to drive the Northern garrison out of Chao-chowfu, Mr. James with the Rev. E. H. Hildreth of the American Baptist Mission and a Roman Catholic Father earned the gratitude of the whole city by acting, at considerable personal risk, as intermediaries between the rival forces and obtaining finally satisfactory terms for the peaceful evacuation of the city. By public vote a stone tablet recording the incident was set up in the chief temple of the city, where it still stands.

Mr. James is a good administrator in Church affairs and possesses a distinct literary gift.

Before taking up his new post Mr. James, who is at present in England on furlough, will return to the East to arrange matters in his old station and to visit Formosa and the other fields wherein the English Presbyterian Mission has work.

ANOTHER WORLD COMPARISON

A good idea of the contrasting courses open to Governments which seek to promote national recovery can be obtained by comparing the basic ideas of the American and Italian policies. In each case, the general objective is the same—to get back some sort of decent equilibrium between what the worker gets and what he spends, between income and expenditure, between the price level and the debt level. The American idea—although the actual operation of the N.R.A. Codes may in some instances not appear to be working in that direction—is to boost wages and prices, in the hope that the former will be sent up faster than the latter. The Italian policy, on the other hand, according to details of Mussolini's programme recently announced, is to proceed on opposite lines. Salaries and wages are being cut, rents reduced, and commodity and retail prices lowered. It seems clear that Italy, in instituting this programme, has an eye on world trade. With domestic prices and wages lowered, Italy would no doubt be in a better position to bid for world markets. At the back of the Italian policy there seems to be a belief that the world depression is still in full force and that no very speedy rise in world price levels or trade activities is in prospect. Thus, there is to be a cutting down of national levels to meet the level produced by the world crisis. The American programme, on the other hand, is based on the idea that the depression is slowly but surely coming to an end, and that its end can be hastened by a rise in prices and business activity in individual nations. In other words, instead of adjusting domestic affairs to meet a depression level, it seeks to adjust the depression level to local needs. In both cases, drastic Government action is required. It may be several years before a definite idea can be obtained as to which programme is the more effective. One of the complicating factors is that even whilst the remedies are being applied, changes are occurring which may easily upset the whole basis of pre-arranged schemes. From which it appears that nations which keep their policies fluid and easily adjustable to meet new conditions will eventually come out on top.

NOTES OF THE DAY

GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE?

Who are the people? And how much attention should a legislator pay to them? Both these questions, which might have been raised as the result of the signs of growing dissatisfaction locally with our system of government by regulation, are in reality fundamental to the proper functioning of democracy, and have been discussed recently in Britain and the United States. To the second question, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, returned a superficially disconcerting answer. He said that if 600 of his constituents wrote asking him to take a certain line in financial policy, the only effect their letters would have would be one of irritation. Most politicians, on reflection, would probably agree in principle with Mr. Chamberlain's statement, for the general view in Britain is that democracy is government by the people's elected representatives in what the representatives consider to be the people's interest, rather than in servile obedience to popular opinion.

NOT MERELY ACADEMIC

Who then are the people whose interest is to be served? This is no mere academic query; as is shown in the observation made in a recent debate by Mr. Allen T. Treadway to Mr. Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, to the effect that "You, Mr. Secretary, are looking at this thing nationally; we members of Congress have to look at it from the point of view of the districts we represent." English political theory would not agree with Mr. Treadway. It holds broadly that a Member of Parliament is not deputised primarily to work for the advantage of his constituents, but that he is sent to contribute his own district's knowledge and opinions to a large whole in which the interest of the entire nation is paramount.

DIVERSE INTERESTS

This principle is possibly harder to apply in the United States than in Great Britain, because the United States is a much bigger country, with a far greater diversity of sectional interests, so that rigid adherence to this thesis calls for more constant temporary sacrifices on the part of small areas. In this fact lies its significance from the world point of view. If this principle ultimately triumphed in the United States—the greater part of a continent—there would be no impossibility in envisaging a future in which it would hold sway over most, or all, of the world. As yet it is still regarded as fully justifiable for one sovereign state to adopt measures which injure another, especially in the realm of tariffs. Perhaps the time is not far distant when this will seem as outrageous as does to English observers the demand that sectional interests should take precedence of national welfare.

NEW JOBS FOR OLD

There recently appeared in the London newspapers a letter demanding, in learned and abstruse language, thorough overhauling of the financial system of Britain. This impressive document was signed, not, as might have been expected, by economists and men of business, but by literary critics and poets like Mr. Lascelles Abercrombie and Mr. T. S. Eliot, whose principal concern is, indeed, with numbers, but hardly the sort of numbers that financiers are usually interested in. Several similar proposals have been put forward from time to time by various organisations so that it was with a touch of pardonable pride that Mr. Eliot and his colleagues mentioned that their own communication had been in "preparation independently." To do the thing off one's own bat is, of course, cricket.

WIDE IMPLICATIONS

This letter has wider implications than may have been seen even by its sponsors. If men of letters are to enter into politics, competition in that region of affairs naturally will become sharper than it has been hitherto, and the question of finding new jobs for politicians cannot much longer be ignored. Happily, some celebrated statesmen will have little difficulty in finding employment. Mr. Winston Churchill's past career, for example, has furnished him with ample material for setting up a haters' establishment. A possibility for Sir Samuel Hoare is indicated in the exhibition of ice-rink skating which he recently gave, an exhibition whose dexterity was not altogether surprising in one who, as a knowledgeable economist, may be expected to be good at figures. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald would, of course, be an excellent press agent for Lossiemouth.

THE GRAN CHACO IN THE STRUGGLE FOR OIL

By A. EDDY

Less than twenty years ago, when the writer happened to be residing in Paraguay, nobody talked about the Gran Chaco in South America.

The Gran Chaco then was simply "no man's land" whose boundaries had never been clearly defined for the reason that for hundred years no one wanted it. When anyone asked a Paraguayan where the Northwestern frontier was, he would point in the direction of Bolivia and say: "más allá" (there yonder, or further up) and the Bolivian would point toward Paraguay and say "más allá." Nobody was interested in a piece of land which only harboured a few thousand Indians and whose only product was malaria and yellow fever.

Paraguay itself was then a primitive but happy country, without electricity and telephone, but also without lock on the doors. The men would offer you drinks and cigars and the women would give you flowers saying with the innocence of a child: "Take this flower from me. You have so beautiful blue eyes." The men did not get jealous as there were seven women to every man in the land, and strangers must be treated with courtesy.

There were no beggars in Paraguay. Every family owned a modest house with a piece of land where to grow tobacco and mandioca and there was always fresh "mate" with an extra piece of sugar for the guest. (Mate is a species of tea and an indispensable beverage in the households of South America.)

A MAN'S PARADISE

Nobody worked in Paraguay except the women. Man was an absolute king and a blue eyed of fair-haired man a king of kings. The men only smoked, discussed in the local news, played the guitar and went to the races every day.

Only ten per cent of the population (out of a total of about a million) knew Spanish, the rest only spoke "guaraní," a South American dialect etymologically akin to the Mongolian tongues, and even the senators in the parliament would lapse into their native lingo in the heat of an argument.

The wealth of a man depended on the number of horses he owned and on the size of the "poncho" he could afford to buy. The poncho served the useful purpose of protecting him against the cold Southern wind and it also enabled him to cover himself and his sweethearts at night. The bigger the poncho, the more sweethearts for the night. That was Paraguay twenty years ago.

With the war and post-war boom, however, there came a profound change in the tranquillity of that peaceful country. Foreign agents secured the land for raw materials, hides of animals, cattle, etc., and recruited labour for the newly installed factories paying fabulous wages, in terms of local currency. Thousands of families sold their house and land to live in the barracks provided by the meatpackers and other industrial plants thus creating the nucleus of a proletariat now acquainted with all the vices of civilisation and to-day without work and shelter clamouring for bread.

DISCOVERY OF OIL

With the discovery of oil in the Gran Chaco a little over ten years ago or so arose the necessity for defining just where that "más allá" was. American finance backed by oil interests repeatedly advanced many million dollars during the last decade to Bolivia on the assumption that that "más allá" would be in her favour, while British Dutch interests are financing Paraguay with a view to getting the controlling interest in the Gran Chaco oilfields to be exploited at a later and more propitious date. The natural outlet for the products of the Gran Chaco is the Paraná River controlled by Paraguay and if Bolivia wins the war she will demand, in addition to the Gran Chaco, an outlet on the Paraná which had been already refused to her. In the last analysis, therefore, the war in the Gran Chaco is nothing but one phase of the relentless battle for oil that is being waged throughout the world with all the wire pulling done in New York and London.

Who will win the Gran Chaco war? The Paraguayans are a heroic race whose war of independence against the united forces of Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay in 1861-1865 is one of the most brilliant pages in the history of nations. For five years this tiny country, led by General Lopez, fought against the superior forces of the enemy who could enter Asunción only after practically every able bodied man in the country had been killed, which accounts for the present ratio of men and women in the land.

The Bolivians, living on the highlands in healthier climate, are a sturdier and more hard-working people than the Paraguayans and also dispose of greater manpower and resources. However, they are up against formidable difficulties of transport and the self-sacrificing spirit of their adversaries.

HEROIC RACE

According to private advices from South America, the imported General Kuntz, who was one of Von Klotz's lieutenants in the Great War, being unable to turn the bad luck of the Bolivians has been fired in accordance with the principle of commercial value of man, but the grim struggle for the mastery of oil goes on just the same. In the name of humanity a stop should be put to this butchery which threatens with annihilation the remaining few hundred thousand descendants of a heroic race.

The Very Idea! THIS SUMMER NONSENSE

By George

DESPITE the encouragement it has received from the Press in general, summer this year has cheated the calendar of 84 1/2 hours of sunshine and the population of two spare coats of tan so far, working on the figures supplied by the local weather experts.

Smart readers who detect a spelling mistake in the above sparkling opening should crow cautiously, as it can also be taken as a joke. No more should be taken than seen, however, and that will be enough of that.

Yes. Three weeks ago we wrote up the approach of summer. 'Twas thuswise.

"Yesterday's maximum temperature was 66 degrees which we find is the hottest recorded on this particular day of the year since the mercury last shot above 66 degrees which was as long ago as the date supplied to us by the meteorological office but since lost by us and re-printed to-morrow in error."

Later we described in glowing terms our exodus to the beach.

"Yesterday all roads led to the beaches and the happy splashing sea, when bare legs, backs, mosquitoes, and raincoats foregathered to herald the arrival of the sun. Owing to a date with Venus at Astral Corner however, the sun failed to put in an appearance but our readers are assured that to-morrow summer begins in earnest d. v., etc, and so on."

We ourselves personally set forth to get a coat of tan and came back with a cold which has already been printed in this column.

ADAPTATION.

PENELOPE (Kowloon).—No, dear, I don't care for bare legs on the tennis court. I'm not, I hope, either prudish or conventional. But I always remember what Mrs. Blore said, "There are some things that are simply not done." Forgive my plain speaking; I should hate you to "start in" wrong. By the way, there are excellent stockings obtainable that are practically invisible, so why go to the trouble of not wearing any?

"GRAY EYES" (Upper Levels).—An original costume for a dance? Why, of course, "Gray Eyes." (My favourite colour, too, barring blue or brown). What about "May Queen" or "Cinderella"? Or another "cute" idea is to go as a jockey and pretend your horse is "without." If any one says "Without what?" you reply, "Why, without me, of course." The little "jape" should win you hosts of new friends.

CALL NIGHT AT THE INN.

Twenty-four ways of Cooking a Garoupa. By Kozia Bulph (illustrated). Shorkina, 8s. 6d.

With the possible exception of Sir Horace Tantomont, Mrs. Bulph is our greatest authority on garoupa. The present work embodies a lifetime of experience. We regret, however, that Mrs. Bulph views the garoupa solely as a potential food. Its qualities as a playmate—for those who maintain aquaria—are all too little appreciated.

UTILITY BATTLE
IN AMERICAPUBLIC v. PRIVATE OWNERSHIPAN EXPERT'S SURVEY

New York, May 28. The "outstanding crimes" of public utility companies have been committed against the inventor, rather than the consumer of power, according to Mr. Thomas F. Woodlock in a discussion of municipal versus private ownership in the Wall Street Journal.

Mr. Woodlock's analysis has attracted particular attention in the financial community because of the current wave of legislation aimed at utilities and utility holding companies. Both Federal and State Governments have instituted a flood of utility investigations and these have been supplemented by a series of laws designed either to encourage municipal ownership of private companies.

The Federal Power Commission is now engaged in a survey of electricity rates, pursuant to a Senate resolution sponsored by Senator Norris of Nebraska, ancient foe of private utility operation.

The New York State Legislature has just enacted a series of bills circumscribing activities of private power companies and encouraging municipal ownership. Utility shares on the stock market have responded to this regulatory barrage by consistently lagging behind in every general market advance.

VERBAL BATTLE.

Mr. Woodlock, in summing up the recent New York battle of words between Governor Lehman and Mr. Floyd Carlisle, chairman of Consolidated Gas Company of New York, cites figures showing an average monthly residential electricity bill in the United States of U.S.$2.76.

Mr. Carlisle, in his debate with the Governor, produced a collection of municipal plants in 33 New York villages where the average monthly cost of electricity to the residential user was U.S.$1.47 or 26 per cent. above the average for the United States.

These figures, however, carry little weight, Mr. Woodlock declared.

"Public ownership and operation of electricity utility service in this country," he said, "save in comparatively very few places is not on the average as economical or as efficient as is private operation. Such figures as are available point in that direction, but they are not conclusive."

In Brocton the cost is U.S. $2.20 per month and in Greenport it is U.S.$5.

"How can such a variation be accounted for? How many of these villages purchase current from private plants? How many generate their own power? How many really cover costs from the rates charged? In how many do taxpayers subsidize consumers and vice versa?"

BEGGING QUESTION.

"It is easy to demonstrate that given equal ability and honesty in management and accounting it should be possible to make and distribute electric current more cheaply by the use of public credit than by employing private credit. But we all know that in that assumption the entire question is pegged at the start. Municipal government, municipal finance and municipal accounting are assuredly not outstanding jewels in our social crown."

RUSSIAN ACCUSED OF SNATCHINGYAUMATI SHOP INCIDENT

An allegation that a Russian, Joseph Sivak, had snatched $80 from her hand was made by a woman, Chan See, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when Sivak was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones with larceny from the person.

It was stated by Detective Sergeant Kennedy that the complainant was the mistress of a bicycle shop at No. 678 Shanghai Street. At 2.30 p.m. yesterday defendant went into her shop and bought two bicycle pedals and two handle-bar grips, the total value being $1.25. Defendant tendered a $10 note and a shop foki took the note up to the cockpit, where the complainant was, in order to get change.

It was alleged that defendant followed the foki up to the cockpit. The complainant had $170 on the table, but on seeing the foki and the defendant, she hurriedly put the money away in a safe.

Defendant was given $8.75 as change, consisting of a Shanghai Bank $5 note, two $10 notes, two silver dollars and 75 cents in small change. Defendant, it was alleged, refused to take the $5 note and said he wanted a Chartered Bank note. The complainant then opened her safe and took out the $170 which she had just put in. It was alleged that while she was holding the money, defendant took hold of her hand. She could not explain what happened as he held her hand, but after he had left the shop she found that eight $10 bills were missing.

Defendant was meanwhile walking along Shanghai Street, but two shop foki who had been sent out after the defendant caught up with him near Fife Street. On being challenged, he produced the eight notes which he was alleged to have taken from the complainant.

Defendant, then charged, denied that he had snatched the money from the complainant's hand. He stated that the money was on the floor and he had picked it up in a moment of temptation.

After complainant's evidence had been taken, defendant was remanded until to-morrow for further inquiries to be made.

MUSSOLINI NAVY
PROGRAMME70,000 Tons of New Ships of the Line

(Special to Telegraph)

(The Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Agency, London, 1934. Received May 28, 5.25 a.m.)

Rome, May 27. Signor Mussolini has explained that the two thousand million lire which has been allotted for strengthening the Italian navy and air force will be spread over a period of six years and not six months, as was first reported.

It is pointed out that it takes four years to complete a line-of-battle ship and that it is intended that the whole of the 70,000 tons allotted to Italy under the Washington Treaty will be devoted to ships of the line.—Reuter Special.

The real crime of the electric industry is its prosperity, aggravated by the conspicuous blunders and worse of some of its most prominent leaders.—United Press.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

SOME MUST FOLLOW, AND SOME COMMAND, THOUGH ALL ARE MADE OF CLAY.—Longfellow.

Head injuries which may prove fatal were suffered by Chan See, 72, a widow, when she was knocked down in Johnston Road yesterday by a tram.

Sometimes during Saturday night or early yesterday morning, a burglar entered the St. Paul's Hotel at Upper Albert Road, and stole jewellery, clothing and money to the value of over $200 from one of the inmates.

Tsol Yin, aged 61 years, who admitted the theft of cotton singlet from No. 106 Des Voeux Road Central, was fined $10 or fourteen days' imprisonment by Mr. Macfarlane in the Central Court this morning. Sub-Inspector Hallam said defendant took the singlet from a counter and placed it under his arm under cover of a bamboo hat.

A fine of $30, or three weeks' hard labour, was imposed on Chan Yin by Mr. Macfarlane this morning for the possession of a watch and chain, suspected of having been unlawfully obtained. Detective Sergeant Goodwin said defendant stated that a man, whom he could not find, had given him the watch, with the promise of a half-share in the proceeds if he was successful in pawning it. The watch, valued at $12, was probably stolen, silver, dated with 1931.

LONG FIRM FRAUD
TRIALLIZARRAGA
ADDRESSES JURY

CLOSING STAGES

The long firm fraud trial approached its end at the Criminal Sessions this afternoon, when Mr. Justice MacGregor concluded his summing-up. The jury retired at 3.15 p.m. to consider their verdict.

Accused are Jose Lizarraga (35), of Manila, Wong Sau-mo (29), of Shanghai and Nicholas Levitsky, a Russian, (34).

The basis of the charges is a conspiracy to defraud persons by pretending that they were carrying on a genuine business known as Standard Products Company. There are twelve other charges of obtaining credit and goods by fraud and money by false pretences.

MAGISTRATE CALLED.

Lizarraga repeated his request to call Mr. E. W. Hamilton, Police Magistrate, to give evidence on his behalf and his Lordship replied that he would grant the request, though made out of time, in view of the fact that prisoners were not legally represented.

Putting Lizarraga's questions for him to Mr. Hamilton, his Lordship asked:—Do you remember a witness Sui Tai, manager of the Standard Products Company?

Witness:—I do. The suggestion that the accused had just made is that while listening to his evidence, you formed a certain opinion about him, which you expressed?—I certainly formed an opinion about him, but as to the exact phrase, if any, which I may have dropped, I cannot swear. I remember my opinion.

The suggestion is that you characterised the witness as a liar in your opinion. Is that likely or improbable?—I think it is a little sweeping.

Is that the sort of line along which your mind was working?—I actually rebuked the witness for equivocating.

There being no cross-examination, Mr. Fraser tendered three more witnesses, but only called one, Kwok Tin-lei, of 60, Jordan Road, where the Kun Chung Cinema is situated.

The witness, in reply to Lizarraga, denied that at this address were a firm named Charles Earl & Co., and the proprietor, Lei Sun-chung.

ACCUSED ADDRESSES JURY.

Lizarraga then proceeded to address the jury on behalf of all accused, taking as his main line the point that the Standard Products Company was a genuine business.

He described the first beginnings of the firm and said that according to the Crown these preparations were made with the idea of defrauding local firms. He submitted that they would not have gone to the expense and trouble they did for such an object.

It was also a point in their favour that though they had credit with Jardine, Matheson and other firms who often pressed them to give much bigger orders, or would have allowed them to place much bigger orders, they did not do so.

They only ordered a few cases from Jardine, Matheson where they could have ordered 60; they only got four cases of Ovaltine where they might have obtained $2,000 worth; and after speaking to Mr. Smith of Lohring & Smith, they reduced their order from $1,800 to $180. The cheques for these purchases were post-dated to February 10, when Sui Tai had promised to pay the Standard Products Company.

REASON FOR CHEQUES.

The reason they gave cheques for such purchases as the refrigerator, safe, etc., was that by making cash payments they saved a considerable amount of discount and not because they could obtain a receipt and slip away before the cheques fell due.

Even now Standard Products Company had $31 to its credit. The bank cashier, he submitted, was certainly not justified in closing their account without notifying the Company. Even if they had not collected from Sui Tai or the "man at Canton" they had $1,300 which they intended to deposit on the Saturday.

That they intended to run a genuine business was evidenced by the fact that they engaged a book-keeper and office files, etc. When arrested their baggage was found at the Empress Hotel. If they had intended to run away, it would have been much easier to put it on the train from their address in Hankow Road.

POLICE CRITICISED.

Lizarraga, continuing, said the police action in confiscating the books and papers from the safe, before the accused could make a statement, was a mistake.

ASSAULT ON A
PROSTITUTEMONEY DEMAND CHARGE FAILS

Ho Kam, unemployed, was fined $5, or seven days' imprisonment, by Mr. Thomson, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for having assaulted Ng Sam-mui, a registered prostitute, at No. 17 Yat Fu Lane, first floor.

Another charge of having demanded $100 with menaces was dismissed. Chung Shum, a coolie, was also accused jointly, but was discharged on both counts.

It was alleged by the complainant that Ho Kam came with the other defendant into the woman's cubicle. Ho Kam demanded $100, which he said was for the cost of condensed milk which he had supplied to her adopted daughter. She refused because he had given only a few tins as presents, and he slapped her. Second defendant did not strike her.

Ho Kam admitted having slapped complainant when she refused to give him the $100.

list of them, had prevented them from proving certain receipts.

With reference to the occasion when he was charged by Inspector Murphy with conspiracy to defraud he absolutely denied that he said "I plead guilty" and maintained that when he signed the charge sheet it was blank.

"I ask you, gentlemen of the jury," he concluded, "to consider this case without regard of the fact that the man who speaks in speaking from the dock; to hear it without prejudice."

Mr. Fraser said it was unusual for the prosecution to make an address in such a case, but he felt bound to go over the charges and evidence in detail.

In the course of long review of the case, the Assistant Attorney General pointed out that Wong had already admitted that he left some baggage as a blind and that he and Lizarraga meant to get to Canton without paying their rent.

JUDGE SUMS UP.

Summing up, his Lordship said that, as originally presented, there were 13 charges for the jury to consider, but they would return formal verdicts of "Not Guilty" on two of them affecting Levitsky.

If the jury held that the Standard Products Company was a genuine business, then the case was at an end and the verdict was one of "Not Guilty." The Crown had to satisfy them that representation was made by accused that it was a genuine business; that, in fact, it was a false representation; also that the accused knew that it was a false representation.

As the Crown had pointed out, in a long firm fraud such as this was alleged to be, the most elaborate preparations had to be made and money had to be spent before proceeding to obtain credit. Accused did all this and advertised in the newspaper, and got up their offices and godown to look exactly as it would be expected.

The first accused, speaking for all of them, had said that the business was a perfectly proper one; that a friend named Lei San-chung, who lived at 60, Jordan Road, met him in town one day, invited him to dinner and there suggested the establishment of a business to sell cheaply some smuggled goods which he possessed. Lei employed Lizarraga at $400 a month and also Wong, and later Levitsky. Lei, however, could not be found and nothing could be traced in connection with him by the police.

THREE POINTS.

His Lordship, dealing with the Crown allegation that on the day of their arrest, Lizarraga and Wong Sau-mo were planning an exit from the Colony, mentioned the three points on which that allegation was based: namely, the possession of railway tickets valid only for that day; the intactness of the baggage after removal from the Hankow Road flat to the room at the Empress Hotel; and the possession on the person of Wong of all their money.

It might well be argued that they were waiting for the full $2,000 before putting it in the Bank. But one other fact, which had been made much of by the prosecution, was that if it was a genuine business firm, they would expect in the ordinary course of business to be particularly careful with their credit and at all times to keep a sufficient amount at the Bank to meet all cheques being drawn against them.

What the Standard Products had to open their accounts was a sum of $200 representing half of the guarantee required from the man who was to be their storekeeper, and two cheques for collection at Peking; after which there was no evidence to show that further amounts were paid in. The case for the prosecution was that this opening of a Bank account with the "large amount of $250" was part of a general plan to inspire confidence. That amount of $250 was not really theirs, but was to be used to inspire confidence.

OTHER POINTS.

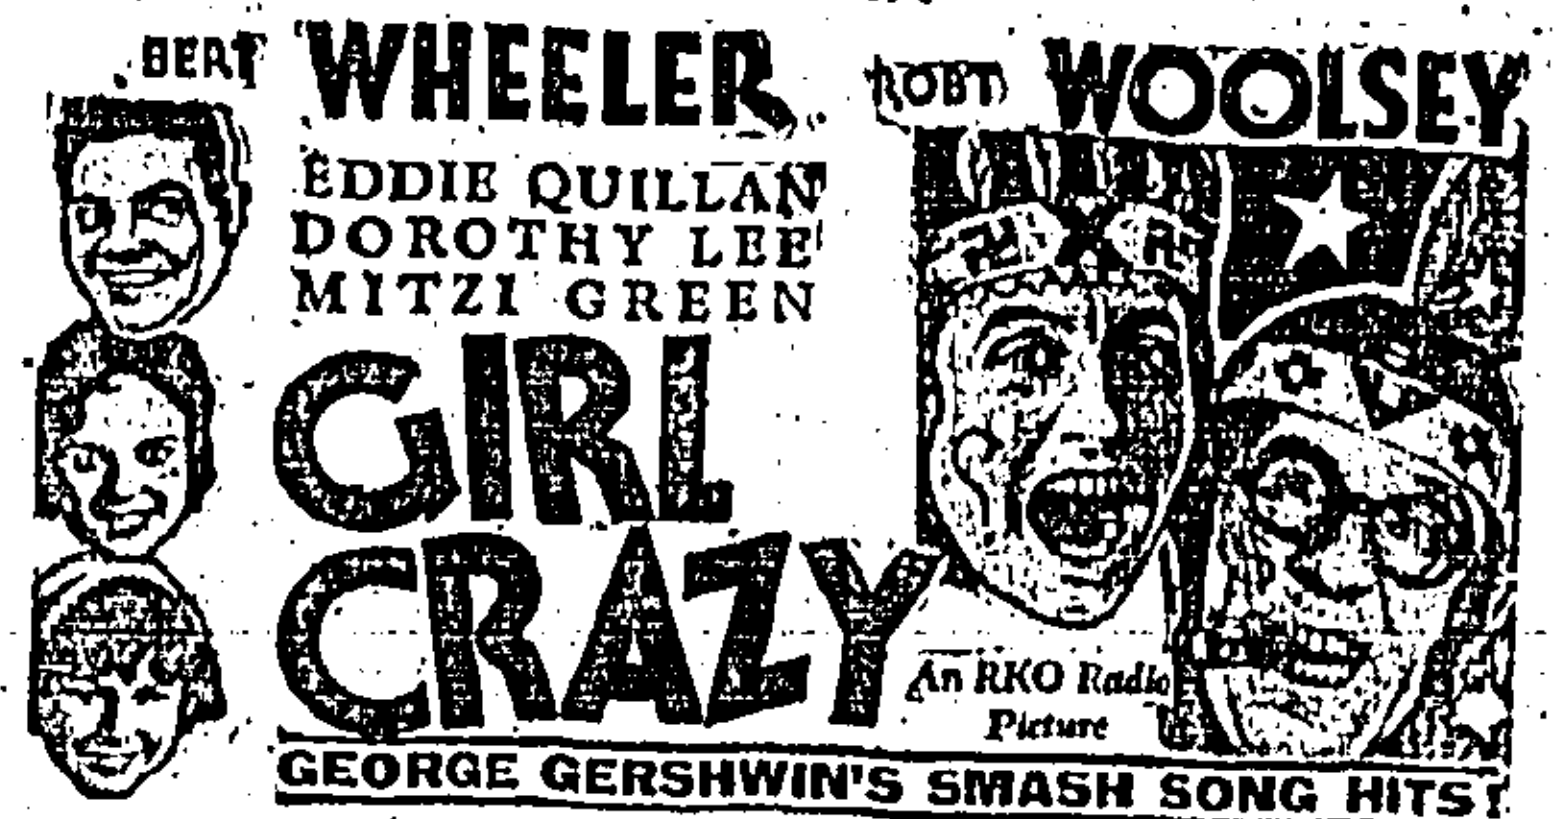

They had Lizarraga's declaration that they were opening a business in Canton and that the Chinese was the only one of their number who was going there for that purpose. Lizarraga also declared that they were negotiating for a flat at Happy Valley into which he proposed to move; but against this explanation the jury were asked to consider two questions:—Why was Lizarraga's baggage packed with that of the Chinese, and how was it that the China Travel Bureau representative given instructions that he was to forward all the baggage that he would find in the room at the Empress Hotel? The Crown would say that it was never intended to be a genuine business at all, and that their intention was to get sufficient funds to leave the Colony.

His Lordship next dealt with the case against the Russian accused, Levitsky, who was charged with obtaining goods by fraud. His Lordship thought there was very little against the Russian on that charge. If they were to believe his story, it would be that of a man with innocent intentions, being mixed up in dealings with an unscrupulous criminal manager.

AROUND THE LOCAL SPORTS FIELD

WHY CHINESE OLYMPIC FOOTBALLERS LOST

Not for years have local Chinese football teams suffered so many defeats, particularly in representative games, as in the season recently concluded, and when on Saturday last the victorious Olympic side returned to give an exhibition of their prowess against a Hongkong F. A. eleven, they had the mortification of again being the losing team. While admitting that the Chinese were without their inspiration, Lee Wai-tong, it has also to be remembered that the winners were denied the services of Mollane, Morrison, Podmore and Jones.

WHY THEY LOST.

Of course one does not have to search far to discover the reason why the Olympic outfit lost. Quite apart from the display of Cord in goal, which has not been equaled during any time of the last eight months, the Chinese made the mistake of preferring the "fancy stuff" against players who have not only come to recognise it a mile off, but have also worked out very effective methods for its destruction. In terms of scientific football, the Chinese were cleverer and more entertaining, but expressed in the language of goals, which means victory as against defeat, the Association eleven were right ahead.

CORD'S GOALKEEPING.

Cord's goalkeeping for the winners was not only brilliant enough to bring the huge crowd to its feet time and again, but also to draw complimentary remarks from Mr. M. K. Lo at the presentation following the match. Several times Cord appeared to be taking extraordinary risks, and on the face of it might have been described as lucky to get away with his clearances; nevertheless it was noticeable that his timing was faultless, and that whether under the bar or several yards in front of his citadel, he was absolutely confident.

IN THE FIELD.

In the field, A. V. Gosano at left back, Ernest Strange up forward and I. G. Robertson at half, played finely for the Association, while for the Chinese, Tam Kong-pak was a thrustful attacker, but badly supported. Leung Wing-chai was just Leung Wing-chai, and Wong Wing had his most unhappy match for months.

uninterrupted victory, and continue to head the first division of the lawn bowls league as a result of a smashing win against the Civil Service on Saturday. The champions were up on all three rinks, a true sign of team work, balance and stability. Craigengower "A" forgot about their ignominious reverse at a week previous and went to Taikeo to head all three rinks and win comfortably. Their less reliable club-mates in the same division, although at home, failed to stop the Recreation from garnering points. There are still long faces to be seen at the K.C.C., and the Police are also beginning to wonder what it feels like to win, although they were not engaged on Saturday.

CIVIL SERVANTS SHOCKED.

As was anticipated, the Police helped themselves considerably by winning against the Football Club, but it was hardly expected they would benefit as they did at the expense of the Civil Service. But the "Servants" suffered their first licking and as a result have to share the leadership with the Police and A.C.C. incidentally the progress of the Sookunpoo bowlers this year is worth noting. LAWN TENNIS.

Teams in the "C" Division of the league have got their way, and each one will now play 14 matches instead of seven. A supplementary list of fixtures will have to be drawn up, as the decision to reverse the ruling of the Executive Committee was not made until after the handbook had gone to press. In the meantime, there is an absorbingly interesting match in the mixed doubles scheduled for this afternoon. The U.S.R.C., keenly seeking to regain the crown lost last year to the C.R.C., meet the Kowloon Cricket Club in the first of two matches. The K.C.C. are also stronger this year than for some time past, and with a victory over the champions already to their credit, are looking forward with quiet assurance to the outcome of to-day's important encounter.

EXCELLENT LADIES.

The United Services this year have very much strengthened by the inclusion of Mrs. Kayll, a player of considerable experience and talent. Against this the K.C.C. enjoy the assistance of Mrs. Wilson, who with Teddy Fincher, can be ranked among the first three mixed doubles pairs in the Colony. Good form is also being shown by Miss Griffiths and Bertie Guest, and it is from these two pairs that the K.C.C. hope to obtain the required five sets.

TWO OTHER TEAMS BLANKED OUT

New York, May 27. The Yankees suffered another crushing defeat to-day, when they were beaten by St. Louis, who totted up 16 runs from 15 hits, as against the Yankees' meagre seven runs.

For the first time for some period, there was some effective pitching done. Mungo blanked out Cincinnati Reds and Betts of Boston Braves did likewise to the Chicago Cubs. New York Giants were again beaten and St. Louis Cardinals chalked up further points.

WORLD LAND SPEED RECORD

Salduro Lake Suitable For Sir M. Campbell.

New York. Mr. W. E. Sturm, who is representing Sir Malcolm Campbell at Salt Lake City, says that the shore of the great lake will meet the requirements for Sir Malcolm's attempt to improve on his own world land speed record of 272.108 m.p.h. in August.

This announcement follows the decision of the local body to try to raise $10,000 as guarantee for expenses.

Mr. Sturm says that the tentative course will undoubtedly stand the weight of Campbell's car going over it at 300 m.p.h.

The Salduro Lake bed where the attempt will be made is a deposit of hard packed natural mineral salts.

This latest report seems to dispel of recent rumours that Sir Malcolm's next attempt would be in South Africa.—Reuter.

Purifying Golf Language

NEW ITALIAN EDICT

London, May 17. The Italian Golf Federation announces that golf language must go and only pure Italian words be used. This is not all. The Federation has issued new orders to all golf clubs throughout Italy—all the oldest were founded by Britons and Americans—which are fraught with far-reaching consequences to non-Italian players. The new rulings provide:—

- 1.—All club presidents, secretaries and committee members must be Italian.
- 2.—No players may compete in inter-club matches without the Federation's consent.
- 3.—Clubs may not hold committee meetings without advising the Federation beforehand.
- 4.—Competitors in cup ties must pay a special fee to the Federation.
- 5.—Non-Italian players must pay a special tax, and obtain an identity card before using Italian courses.

GERMANY'S IDEA.

Recently, all club secretaries were British, and non-Italian members sat on the committees and took great interest in the welfare of their clubs. One British President has been allowed to remain—Cnair, Alfred Wyatt, of the Mungo and Godeballe Golf Club, on Lake Como, the course and club-house being his property. The Federation has made this exception because he was given the honorary citizenship of Menaggio and Croce some years ago in return for his services to the inhabitants of those places.

Contrarily, in Germany it has been decided that golf, although not a German game, is to be popularised. There are only fifty clubs in Germany, for golf there is a rich man's game. But times are to change.

"Golfers are not born, they are made," say the National-Socialists, and they have set aside a day as the "Day of German Golf," to demonstrate to the people how the game should be played.

After that, all novices showing particular talent are to be given free tuition, and a special corps of 22 players is to be trained to repel foreign invaders. Talks on golf are to be broadcast, and the price of equipment is to be reduced. A set of German clubs will cost less than half the price of English ones.

FOR FRENCH TENNIS TITLE

CRAWFORD ALSO WINS

ELIMINATION OF MCGRATH AND HARRY HOPMAN

Paris, May 27.

The first five to reach the quarter-finals of the French tennis championships comprise overseas competitors, including three Englishmen—Perry, Austin and Hughes. Crawford of Australia and Menzel of Czechoslovakia are the other two players.

Two of Australia's leading exponents, Vivian McGrath and Harry Hopman were eliminated, McGrath failing to put any sort of fight against a determined Menzel and Hopman being equally as overawed against Fred Perry.

Austin, fully recovered from a recent attack of gastric influenza, dominated H. Artens, the Austrian Davis Cup player, to win in straight sets (the second to love), and Hughes, benefitting from his experiences in Australia last winter and more recently from tournament play in Egypt, accomplished a first class performance in eliminating Hecht in four sets.

CRAWFORD'S EXPERIENCE.

Jack Crawford had an unexpected experience against M. Slem, the Indian Davis Cup representative. He lost the first set to love, and was taken to twelve games in the third set, after which he ran away with the fourth, refusing to concede a game.

Indications are that England will have at least two representatives in the semi-finals, and as the draw has been seeded, Austin will very likely meet Crawford for the first time since last year's European Zone final of the Davis Cup.

The latest results are:

J. Crawford (Australia) beat M. Slem (India) 6-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-0.
G. P. Hughes (England) beat H. Hecht 6-2, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.
H. W. Austin (England) beat H. Artens (Austria) 6-4, 6-0, 6-3.
R. Menzel (Czechoslovakia) beat V. McGrath (Australia) 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.
F. J. Perry (England) beat H. Hopman (Australia) 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

BETTY NUTHALL OUT.

Miss Betty Nuthall, one of the official England lady representatives in the championships, was defeated in the third round by Sign. Valerio, Italy's leading player, who won in straight sets 6-4, 6-4.

Sign. Valerio has enjoyed several outstanding successes, during the spring tournaments on the Riviera, and at Naples only a few weeks ago brought off a triple victory.

She beat Fr. Aussem, Germany's famous player in the women's singles final, and partnered by Fr. Aussem won the ladies doubles against Sign. Luzzato and Sign. Orlandini (6-4, 6-4), while with W. Hines, she won the mixed doubles event, beating G. L. Rogers and Mlle. Conquerque by 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

M. Slem, beaten by J. Crawford, after winning the first set to love in the French tennis championships.

J. F. CORNES IN A QUANDARY

REPRESENTATION FOR EMPIRE GAMES

London. J. F. Cornes, the former Oxford University President and British champion in 1932, is in a quandary. He has returned home to England on leave from Nigeria, where he has a business appointment and is wondering whether he should represent India, Africa or Great Britain if he is invited to compete in the British Empire Games in London next August.

"I am home on leave for six months from Nigeria," Cornes said, "and I do not know how I shall shape on a cinder track. During the next month or so I intend to have a few spins over the country near my home, and then I shall probably compete in the Southern Championships."

"If I feel that I have recovered my form I shall enter the A.A.A. championships, and then, of course, I might be considered good enough to take part in the Empire Games, but then comes the question, which country shall I represent?"

"I was born in India, and I am resident in Africa, but practically all my running has been done in England. That is a little problem, to be solved before I return to Nigeria and my work."—Reuter.

BADMINTON

NEW ASSOCIATION FORMED

During the reception of the Danish badminton team at Craigside Hydro, Llandudno, before their match against Wales, Mr. F. W. Hughes, chairman of the Welsh Badminton Union, said that the draft Constitution of the new Badminton Federation had been provisionally accepted. The Federation would supersede the various badminton unions, and on it there would be equality of representation. Wales, for instance, would have equal representation with England, although the Welsh union was the youngest of the British badminton unions.

NEW ASSOCIATION.

A Northampton county badminton association is to be formed. The county will be in the same group as Derbyshire, Nottinghamshire, Leicestershire, and Lincolnshire, and the clubs affiliated will be: Peterborough, Kettering, Towcester, and Northampton (three teams). Mr. Gantrey (of the Peterborough club) has been elected to the general committee and the selection committee. The be Mr. F. Rymill, of Northampton, and the match secretary, Mr. Miller, of Kettering.

Comfortable Davis Cup Victory

UNITED STATES WIN 5-0

Wilmington, May 27. Canada failed to win a single rubber against America in the North American zone match of the Davis Cup, losing the last two singles rather easily.

Earlier George Lott and J. Van Ryn had made things certain for the United States by beating Marcel Rainville and Martin in the doubles 6-0, 6-4, 6-0.

Afterwards Lester Stoefer beat Nunn in his second singles 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, and Frank Shields overcame Watt just as comfortably by 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

The United States therefore won by five matches to nil.—Reuter.

CONTRACT
BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem.

Re-entries are an important factor in practically every hand, and still the careless player will not wake up to the fact that he needs re-entries until he has wasted one of them.

To-day's hand is really simple. The bidding is normal and South does not have enough strength to open with anything but a one bid.

Remember that pre-emptive bids to-day are practically a thing of the past with the better player. Get out of the habit of pre-empting.

You may win a hand occasionally, and once in a great while you will find an opponent who will beat you on a hand by making a pre-emptive bid, but to offset that, just keep track of the hundreds of points you win from your opponents through foolish pre-emptive bids.

If they pre-empt and you have the tickets, they are not going to stop you from bidding. What usually happens is that they shut their partners out of the bidding, as well as their opponents, and find themselves in the wrong contract.

I do not like to support my partner with only three trumps after a one bid; therefore, North's response of two hearts is proper.

Of course, as South shows better than a four-card spade suit by his re-bid, North is justified in supporting to four.

The Play

West cashes the ace, king, and queen of clubs, and then leads the queen of diamonds, which South must win with the ace. He has a losing trick in his hand and the only way that he can get rid of it is on a heart.

If the hearts are divided four-three, he can see a possibility of making his contract—but he must watch his entries, so his first play is the three of hearts, winning with the ace in dummy. A heart is returned and declarer should trump with the eight of spades—not a small one.

Now the five of spades is led and won in dummy with the nine. Another heart is returned and this time it should be won with the ten of spades—not the deuce.

The jack of spades must be led next and won in dummy with the queen. A heart is returned and ruffed with the king of spades. We have finally established that little heart.

At the same time, we have reserved the deuce of spades in our own hand and the three spot in dummy, which is the needed entry.

The deuce of spades is won in dummy with the three, the losing diamond now is discarded on the

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

George White, famed producer of the "Scandals", made his professional debut in Hollywood by interviewing nearly 600 girls for the first motion picture edition of his musical. He picked a cast of 160 actresses who appear with Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, Cliff Edwards, Allee Faye and Adrienne Ames in the Fox Film production. Congestion of the large stages at Movietone City by "Fox Follies", "Coming Out Party" and "Bottoms Up" forced White to leave the studio and hold his interviews at the Carthy Circle Theatre. Girls gathered at the theatre for a chance to work with the famous impresario, typed in a double line close around the block on which the theatre stands. For the tryouts the entire group was seated in the auditorium and taken in groups of 50 to the stage, where White and his dance director, George Hiale, made selections that eliminated all but the 160. Commenting on this group, White cast a vote in favour of the most beautiful in the long-standing merits of the New York beautiful and their Hollywood sisters. He expressed the view that the motion picture centre offers fully as beautiful a scene as he has encountered in his fifteen years on Broadway. "Scandals" is now playing at the King's Theatre.

"This Side of Heaven"

"This Side of Heaven" the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which opens on Wednesday at the Alhambra Theatre, brings together in one family one of the most representative arrays of screen talent yet to be seen in any film production. Based upon the novel of Marjorie Bartholomew Parada, it presents the problems of a typical American family—the good heart, and the last trick is won with the ace of spades.

Today's Contract Problem

South has the contract at four hearts. West opens the king of diamonds. How can declarer play the hand to make sure of not losing more than one spade trick?

GUN BATTLE IN RACING CARS

POLITICAL RIVALRY IN PHILIPPINES!

CANDIDATES IN THE SHOOTING

Manila, May 26.
A furious gun battle and two racing cars with the leaders of the major factions participating marked an amazing development in the political campaign at Santa Maria, in Ilocos Sur.

Three men, two of whom were seriously hurt, were wounded as a result of the gun fight.

Prospero Sanidad, candidate for representative for the second district of Ilocos Sur, running against Representative Fidel Villanueva, both of whom took active part in the shooting, was wounded in the arm from a gun shot.

Simplicio Albayalde, 37, an ex-soldier and at present a member of the police force of Vigan, who was riding with Sanidad, was shot several times and is dying.

Juan Alejo, driver of Representative Villanueva's car, was shot in the head and the back. He is in critical condition.

Representative Villanueva and three other men riding with him escaped death from the Sanidad faction by hiding in the bushes after their car was wrecked. Two truck loads of Sanidad men from Narvacan went after the Villanueva car which they destroyed completely but failed to locate the passengers.

BOTH FIRED.
The encounter took place on the

ARRIVING HERE TO-MORROW

The French cruiser Primauguet, flagship of the French Fleet in the Far East, is due here to-morrow morning at 9 a.m. flying the flag of Rear Admiral Richard.

Rear Admiral Richard took over the duties of C-in-C. of the French Fleet in the Far East about a month ago following the sudden death of Vice Admiral Descoires-Fenon whilst on the way to Shanghai. He was formerly Commodore stationed at Cebu, a post now held by Capt. Demot-Maland, former Captain of the Primauguet.

boundary line between San Esteban and Santa Maria. The Villanueva car was headed north from Santa Maria at fast clip when it was overtaken by Sanidad in another car.

Who fired the first shot is a question which the constabulary is at present trying to establish but obviously there was bad blood between the two groups and firing began just as soon as the two cars came within firing distance of each other, according to reports.
Revolver and shotguns were used freely in the melee.

HIGH TENSION.

When the smoke of battle had cleared, the casualties showed two men probably fatally shot and one less seriously.

The bloody encounter between the opposing political factions has thrown people of the province in a turmoil as the feelings between the two factions are at a high tension.

Villanueva and Sanidad are both from Narvacan. The town is at a high tension and bloody encounters between the followers of each group are feared.

CHINESE POLICE ARRESTED

MORE NORTH CHINA INCIDENTS

JAPAN'S STEADY PRESSURE

Tientsin, May 28.

Latest developments in North China present a paradoxical situation.

While Japanese spokesmen declare that satisfactory arrangements have been reached for the complete withdrawal of the remaining Japanese forces along the Great Wall zone, alarm has been caused by the sudden appearance of regular Japanese forces in the city of Shanhaikwan.

Following this incident small groups of Japanese troops have been marching into the demilitarized zone in defiance of the Chinese police.

It is believed that the Japanese are trying to force the Chinese authorities to accede to their demands for the resumption of a through train service between Mukden and Peking.

CHINESE POLICE ARRESTED.

On Friday, Chinese Public Safety Guards in Langhsien were fired upon by Japanese troops and subsequently three of the guards were disarmed by them, on the grounds that they showed a hostile attitude towards the Japanese.

According to the Japanese military attache, through train service between Mukden and Peking will be resumed under the control and management of a third party in the middle of next month.—Central News.
